Introduction

A Guide to Resources in the Law Library

- “Lost property has traditionally been defined as involving an involuntary parting, i.e. where there is no intent on the part of the loser to part with the ownership of the property Abandonment, in turn, has been defined as the voluntary relinquishment of ownership of property without reference to any particular person or purpose . . . i.e. a ‘throwing away’ of the property concerned while mislaid property is defined as that which is intentionally placed by the owner where he can obtain custody of it, but afterwards forgotten.” Favorite v. Miller, 176 Conn. 310, 313, 407 A.2d 974 (1978). (Emphasis added.)
- Treasure Trove: “consists of coins or currency concealed by the owner It includes an element of antiquity To be classified as treasure trove, the property must have been hidden or concealed for such a length of time that the owner is probably dead or undiscoverable.” Benjamin v. Lindner Aviation, Inc., 534 N.W.2d 400, 406 (Iowa 1995).
- Property embedded in the earth: “Another line of cases holds that property, other than treasure trove, which is embedded in the earth is the property of the owner of the locus in quo The presumption in such cases is that possession of the article found is in the owner of the land and that the finder acquires no rights to the article found.” Favorite v. Miller, 176 Conn. 310, 316, 407 A.2d 974 (1978).

Section 1: Abandoned and Unclaimed Property

A Guide to Resources in the Law Library

SCOPE:

Bibliographic resources relating to the procedures in Connecticut for claiming or disposing of the abandoned or unclaimed personal property including escheat of property to the State of Connecticut. This section also includes the rights and duties of finders of abandoned or unclaimed property.

DEFINITIONS:

- Duties of finder: "Any person who finds and takes possession of any article of the value of one dollar or more shall report the finding of such article to the police department of the municipality in which he finds such article within forty-eight hours from the time of such finding. The finder of such article shall, at the time of reporting, furnish to the police department the date, time and place of finding, his name and address and a description of the article found, and, within a period of one week from such finding, shall deliver such article to the police department. Any person who violates or fails to comply with the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a class D misdemeanor." Conn. Gen. Stat. § 50-10 (2017).
- Escheat: "Upon payment or delivery of property presumed abandoned to the Treasurer, the state shall assume custody and, except as otherwise provided in subsection (h) of section 3-65a, shall be responsible for all claims thereto." Conn. Gen. Stat. § 3-67a\(a\) (2017).
- Larceny: "A person commits larceny when, with intent to deprive another of property or to appropriate the same to himself or a third person, he wrongfully takes, obtains or withholds such property from an owner. Larceny includes, but is not limited to. . .

"(4) Acquiring property lost, mislaid or delivered by mistake. A person who comes into control of property of another that he knows to have been lost, mislaid, or delivered under a mistake as to the nature or amount of the property or the identity of the recipient is guilty of larceny if, with purpose to deprive the owner thereof, he fails to take reasonable measures to restore the property to a person entitled to it." Conn. Gen. Stat. § 53a-119 (2017).

- R.F. Daddario & Sons, Inc. v Shelansky, 123 Conn. App. 725, 735, 3 A. 3d 957 (2010). “To constitute [abandonment] there must be an intention to abandon or relinquish accompanied by some act or omission to act by which such an intention is manifested.’ (Citations omitted.) Brierley v. Johnson, 131 Conn. 675, 678, 42 A.2d 34 (1945). “While mere nonuser and lapse of time alone are not enough to constitute abandonment, they are competent evidence of an intent to abandon, and as such may be entitled to great weight when considered with other circumstances, and abandonment may be inferred from circumstances, such as failure by acts or otherwise to assert any claim to the right alleged to have been abandoned, or may be presumed from long continued neglect. . . . Most frequently, where abandonment has been held established, there has been found present some affirmative act indicative of an intent to abandon, as in Peck v. Lee, [110 Conn. 374, 377, 148 A. 133 (1930)].”
- Smith v. Muellner, 283 Conn. 510, 527, 932 A. 2d 382 (2007). “Mere nonuser of an easement created by deed, however long continued, is insufficient to establish abandonment. There must also be some conduct on the part of the owner of the servient estate adverse to and inconsistent with the existence of the easement and continuing for the statutory period, or the nonuser must be accompanied by unequivocal and decisive acts clearly indicating an intent on the part of the owner of the easement to abandon the use of it.” Richardson v. Tumbidge, supra, 111 Conn. 93-94; see also Byard v. Hoelscher, supra, 112 Conn. 16; Stueck v. Murphy Co., 107 Conn. 656, 662-69, 142 A. 301 (1928); American Brass Co. v. Serra, supra, 104 Conn. 148.”
- Rose v. James, Superior Court, Judicial District of Hartford, No. H-1204 (Oct. 26, 2000), 2000 WL 1630023. “Abandonment by the tenant, under either statutory or common law, is a complete defense against an action in unlawful entry and detainer. The issue before the court in this case, therefore, is whether the plaintiff must be deemed to have abandoned the premises and his possessions prior to the bringing of this action.”
- Carothers v. Capozziello, 215 Conn. 82, 130, 574 A.2d 1268 (1990). “In this respect, the question of whether waste has been ‘discarded’ is similar to the factors that will be considered when it has been claimed that property has been abandoned. Although, before legal abandonment can be found, there must be proof of an intent to abandon; Glotzer v. Keyes, 125 Conn. 227, 233, 5 A.2d 1 (1939); that requirement can be met without resort to proof of specific intent. 'Most frequently, where abandonment has been held established, there has been found present some affirmative act indicative of an intention to abandon . . . but nonuser, as of an easement, or other negative or passive conduct may be sufficient to signify the requisite intention and justify a conclusion of abandonment. The weight and effect of such conduct depends not only upon its duration but also upon its character and the accompanying circumstances.' Id.; Sharkiewicz v. Lepone, 139 Conn. 706, 707-708, 96 A.2d 796 (1953); Sanchez v. Forty's Texaco Service, Inc., 5 Conn. App. 438, 440, 499 A.2d 436 (1985), cert. denied, 198 Conn. 803, 502 A.2d 932 (1986)."

- Sanchez v. Forty's Texaco Service, Inc., 5 Conn. App. 438, 440, 499 A.2d 436 cert. den. 198 Conn. 803 (1985). "The critical issue raised on appeal by the plaintiff is whether the court erred in finding abandonment. Abandonment of personal property such as a car requires 'an intention to abandon or relinquish accompanied by some act or omission to act by which such an intention is manifested' and is a question of fact; Sharkiewicz v. Lepone, 139 Conn. 706, 707, 96 A.2d 796 (1953); which must stand unless clearly erroneous."

Statutory Definitions: Abandoned Property
Conn. Gen Stat. § 8-169p. (2017) Urban homesteading.	"As used in this part: (a) 'Abandoned property' means any real property on which there is a vacant structure and on which (1) real property taxes have been delinquent for one year or more and orders have been issued by the municipality's fire official, building official or health official and there has been no compliance with those orders within the prescribed time given by such official or within ninety days, whichever is longer, (2) the owner has declared in writing to the building official that his property is abandoned or (3) there has been a determination by the municipality in accordance with an ordinance adopted under subparagraph (H)(xv) of subdivision (7) of subsection (c) of section 7-148, that the vacant structure contributes to housing blight;"
Conn. Gen Stat. § 8-291. (2017) Acquisition of abandoned property - industrial and commercial buildings	"As used in this chapter: (a) 'Abandoned property' means any real property and any vacant structure thereon used or previously used for industrial or commercial purposes, which the owner has declared, in writing, to the building official to be abandoned, or real property on which there is a vacant structure used or previously used for industrial or commercial purposes which the owner has been given a written order by the building official to demolish and no application for a permit for rehabilitation or demolition has been applied for within thirty days after the date of such order or, if such permit has been granted, no rehabilitation or demolition work has been commenced within thirty days after the granting of such permit;
Conn. Gen. Stat. § 47a-11b (2017) Abandonment of unit by occupants. Landlord's remedies.	"(a) For the purposes of this section, 'abandonment' means the occupants have vacated the premises without notice to the landlord and do not intend to return, which intention may be evidenced by the removal by the occupants or their agent of substantially all of their possessions and personal effects from the premises and either (1) nonpayment of rent for more than two months or (2) an express statement by the occupants that they do not intend to occupy the premises after a specified date."

Complaint and procedure: Forcible entry and detainer; entry and detainer.	"(a) When any person (1) makes forcible entry into any land, tenement or dwelling unit and with a strong hand detains the same, or (2) having made a peaceable entry, without the consent of the actual possessor, holds and detains the same with force and strong hand, or (3) enters into any land, tenement or dwelling unit and causes damage to the premises or damage to or removal of or detention of the personal property of the possessor, or (4) when the party put out of possession would be required to cause damage to the premises or commit a breach of the peace in order to regain possession, the party thus ejected, held out of possession, or suffering damage may exhibit his complaint to any judge of the Superior Court." Forbotnick v. Kalinowski, 26 Conn. L. Rptr. 517 (2000).	"General Statutes 47a-11b also sets forth the procedures a landlord must follow to regain possession of premises in the event the tenant has in fact abandoned and given up possession. Where the premises are abandoned, as defined in the statute, and where the landlord follows the statutory procedures, he may take back possession without recourse to the summary process statutes and without risking exposure to a claim of entry and detainer. 'No action shall be brought under section 47a-43 against a landlord who takes action in compliance with the provisions of this section.' General Statutes 47a-11b(e)."

Gnandt v. DaCruz, 11 Conn. L. Rptr. 500 (1994).	"The lesson to be learned from this case is that where the landlord acts to dispossess a tenant without the benefit of summary proceedings and without actually knowing that the tenant has abandoned the premises, he acts imprudently. If he acts precipitously, as the defendant did in this case, he acts at his peril unless an abandonment has in fact taken place before dispossession. In this case the defendant gambled and won. However, 47a-11b rewards prudence and importunes against such risks as the defendant took."

Pursuant to § 53a-119, [a] person commits larceny when, with intent to deprive another of property or to appropriate the same to himself or a third person, he wrongfully takes, obtains or [withholds] such property from an owner. . . . Conversion can be distinguished from statutory theft as established by § 53a-119 in two ways. First, statutory theft requires an intent to deprive another of his property; second, conversion requires the owner to be harmed by a defendant's conduct. Therefore, statutory theft requires a plaintiff to prove the additional element of intent over and above what he or she must demonstrate to prove conversion." (Internal quotation marks omitted.) Glossary of Terms

Abandonment: "has been defined as the voluntary relinquishment of ownership of property without reference to any particular person or purpose . . . i.e., a 'throwing away' of the property concerned." Favorite v. Miller, 176 Conn. 310, 313, 407 A.2d 974 (1978).

Bailment: "A bailment is a delivery of personal property by one person to another for a particular purpose, in accordance with a contract providing that when the purpose is fulfilled, the property will be returned. The person who owns the property and delivers it to another is the bailor. The person who receives the property is the bailee. [In this case, the return of the property is conditioned upon payment of a fee to the bailee.] Bailment is the name given to the contractual relationship between a bailor and a bailee. A bailment contemplates redelivery of the property by the bailee to the bailor." Connecticut Judicial Branch Civil Jury Instructions 4.4-30.

Conversion: "The tort of conversion boasts a well established definition which is not disputed by the parties. 'Conversion occurs when one, without authorization, assumes and exercises the right of ownership over property belonging to another, to the exclusion of the owner's rights. Falker v. Samperi, 190 Conn. 412, 419, 461 A.2d 681 (1983).'" Luciani v. Stop & Shop Cos., 15 Conn. App. 407, 409-410, 544 A.2d 1238 (1988).

Duties of finder: "Any person who finds and takes possession of any article of the value of one dollar or more shall report the finding of such article to the police department of the municipality in which he finds such article within forty-eight hours from the time of such finding. The finder of such article shall, at the time of reporting, furnish to the police department the date, time and place of finding, his name and address and a description of the article found, and, within a period of one week from such finding, shall deliver such article to the police department. Any person who violates or fails to comply with the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a class D misdemeanor." Conn. Gen. Stat. § 50-10 (2017).

Entry and detainer (landlord and tenant): "When any person (1) makes forcible entry into any land, tenement or dwelling unit and with a strong hand detains the same, or (2) having made a peaceable entry, without the consent of the actual possessor, holds and detains the same with force and strong hand, or (3) enters into any land, tenement or dwelling unit and causes damage to the premises or damage to or removal of or detention of the personal property of the possessor, or (4) when the party put out of possession would be required to cause damage to the premises or commit a breach of the peace in order to regain possession, the party thus ejected, held out of possession, or suffering damage may exhibit his complaint to any judge of the Superior Court." Conn. Gen. Stat. § 47a-43\(a\) (2017).

Escheat: "Upon payment or delivery of property presumed abandoned to the Treasurer, the state shall assume custody and, except as otherwise provided in subsection (h) of section 3-65a, shall be responsible for all claims thereto." Conn. Gen. Stat. § 3-67a\(a\) (2017).

Larceny: "A person commits larceny when, with intent to deprive another of property or to appropriate the same to himself or a third person, he wrongfully takes, obtains or withholds such property from an owner. Larceny includes, but is not limited to: . . . (4) Acquiring property lost, mislaid or delivered by mistake. A person who comes into control of property of another that he knows to have been lost, mislaid, or delivered under a mistake as to the nature or amount of the property or the identity of the recipient is guilty of larceny if, with purpose to deprive the owner thereof, he fails to take reasonable measures to restore the property to a person entitled to it." Conn. Gen. Stat. § 53a-119 (2017).

Lost property: "has traditionally been defined as involving an involuntary parting, i.e., where there is no intent on the part of the loser to part with the ownership of the property." Favorite v. Miller, 176 Conn. 310, 313, 407 A.2d 974 (1978).

Mislaid property: "is defined as that which is intentionally placed by the owner where he can obtain custody of it , but afterwards forgotten." Favorite v. Miller, 176 Conn. 310, 313, 407 A.2d 974 (1978).

Property embedded in the earth: "Another line of cases holds that property, other than treasure trove, which is found embedded in the earth is the property of the owner of the locus in quo The presumption in such cases is that possession of the article found is in the owner of the land and that the finder acquires no rights to the article found." Favorite v. Miller, 176 Conn. 310, 316, 407 A.2d 974 (1978).
