

Alabama	Minimum of $50,000 per year of incarceration
Alaska	None
Arizona	None
Arkansas	None
California	Maximum compensation $100 per day of incarceration
Colorado	None
Connecticut	None
Delaware	None
District of Columbia	No cap on compensation but no punitive damages
Florida	None
Georgia	None
Hawaii	None
Idaho	None
Illinois	Yes. ≤ 5yrs., $15,000 max, 5-14 yrs.; $30,000 max; More than fifteen yrs., $35,000 (with COLA increase).
Indiana	None
Iowa	Yes. $50 per day of incarceration and lost wages up to 25,000/yr plus attorney fees.
Louisiana	$15,000 per year; with a maximum of $150,000.
Maine	Yes. Maximum compensation of $300,000; no punitive damages allowed
Maryland	Yes. No cap on compensation
Massachusetts	Yes. A maximum compensation of $500,000
Missouri	$50 per day of post-conviction confinement
Montana	Yes. Monetary figure not specified. Educational aid provided
Nebraska	None
Nevada	None
New Hampshire	Maximum compensation of $20,000
New Jersey	Compensation is capped at twice the amount the wrongfully imprisoned earned the year of incarceration or $20,000 (which ever is greater, plus attorney's fees)
New Mexico	None
New York	No limit on monetary compensation
North Carolina	$20,000 per year of incarceration; total not to exceed $500,000
North Dakota	None
Ohio	Yes. $25,000 per year and lost wages, and attorney fees
Oklahoma	Yes. $175,000, no time limit
Oregon	None
Pennsylvania	None
Rhode Island	None
South Carolina	None
South Dakota	None

Tennessee	Yes, but not specified
Texas	$25,000 per year of incarceration, to a maximum total of $500,000, plus one year of counseling.
Utah	None
Vermont	None
Virginia	Yes. Not specified. 90% of the VA per capita personal income for up to 20 years. Tuition at a community college worth $10,000.
Washington	None
West Virginia	Yes but not specified
Wisconsin	$5000 per year, maximum of $25,000
Wyoming	None