DEAN J. FARMASSONY

v.

APPELLATE COURT

VIVIAN M. FARMASSONY

APRIL 14, 2014

MOTION FOR REVIEW OF DECISION ON MOTION FOR RECTIFICATION

In accordance with Practice Book § 66-7, the Cross Appellant, Dean Farmassony, hereby moves for the Appellate Court to Review the April 2, 2014 decision of the Superior Court on Motion for Rectification and Articulation dated March 5, 2014. Specifically, Dean Farmassony, would ask this Appellate Court to direct the Superior Court to articulate the basis for its decision to not award attorney fees or interest and to order a low weekly reimbursement payment to the Plaintiff.

BRIEF HISTORY OF THE CASE

This is a cross appeal from the decision of the Court (Pinkus, J.) awarding Dean Farmassony $23, 439.50 for child care costs he overpaid from August 14, 2006 to July 25, 2013. The parties were divorced and a Separation Agreement was made part of the Judgment of Divorce on September 20, 2002. According to Paragraph 9 of the Separation Agreement, the agreed to Child Support order was reported as $167.00 child support and $64.75 contribution for child care. On September 19, 2013, the parties stipulated and in each brief both counsel noted that August 14, 2006 marked the date child care ceased. The Court (Pinkus, J.) issued an Order dated November 22, 2013 as follows:

The Plaintiff's Motion for Modification of Support and Accounting of Child Care Costs - Post Dissolution # 111.79 is hereby granted.

The Court finds that the Plaintiff overpaid child care costs in the amount of $23,439.50. This amount is to be repaid without interest at the rate of $100.00 per month commencing on December 1, 2013. No Attorneys Fees to Either Party.

See Judicial Notice of Decision (JDNO) dated November 22, 2013. The Defendant moved for reconsideration of the decision on December 16, 2013 and the Court (Pinkus, J.) denied the motion on December 23, 2013.

The Defendant appealed claiming in the Preliminary Statement of Issues that first, the Court erred in ordering a retroactive modification of child care expenses because it lacked the authority under General Statute § 46b-86 to require repayment or retroactivity prior to date of service of the Plaintiff's Motion to Modify. The Defendant also claimed the Court erred in segregating child care expenses and child support when ordering retroactive payment by the Defendant to the Plaintiff because child care expenses are an integral portion of child support order. Finally, the Defendant claims that the Court erred in its factual finding that a weekly child care order of $64.75 entered on September 20, 2002 was an accurate amount for repayment by the Defendant to the Plaintiff for overpaid child care expenses when the Court had no information on the income of the parties at the time the child care ceased on August 14, 2006. Although the last issue is a bit murky to the Plaintiff's appellate counsel, he will await the brief for the legal analysis.

On the cross appeal, the Plaintiff claimed in the Preliminary Statement of Issues that the Court erred in not awarding attorneys fees to the Plaintiff since the Defendant had intentionally and materially breached the Separation Agreement by accepting monies earmarked for child care that she did not use for child care. In addition, the Plaintiff claimed on cross appeal that he was entitled to interest on the monies which he did not receive. Finally, although not stated in the Preliminary Statement of Issues, he will be claiming that a judgment of $100.00 a month is not reasonable because the Defendant will not repay the balance for 19 and 1/2 years.

In order for the Cross Appellant to create an adequate record for review, the Plaintiff, filed a Motion for Rectification and Articulation requesting that the Superior Court make the following articulations:

1. The Separation Agreement provides in Paragraph 19 that in the event of an intentional and material breach of the agreement, such as the Defendant's failure to inform the Plaintiff of the cessation of child care expenses, the Court shall award the prevailing party an attorney's fee. Please explain the reasons that the Court opted to not order the Defendant, as the offending party, to pay, the Plaintiff, the prevailing party, a reasonable attorney's fee, court costs, and other related expenses incurred in the enforcement of the Agreement.
2. Please explain the reasons the Court opted not to award the Plaintiff interest to reimburse the Plaintiff for child care costs the Defendant never incurred and which the Defendant should have never returned to the Plaintiff years ago.
3. Please explain the reason the Court opted to award periodic payments of $100.00 a month rather than a lump sum, series of lump sums, or more substantial weekly payment for reimbursement of overpaid child care contribution, rather than a monthly order that will take the Defendant close to 19 and 1/2 years to repay the Plaintiff.

The Court Granted the Motion for Articulation and stated as follows:

The Courts orders were made considering all the relevant statutory factors and case law and based upon its exercise of broad discretion as allowed by law.

Decision on Motion for Rectification and Articulation, p. 2.

SPECIFIC FACTS

Dean Farmassony would request that the Appellate Court review and remand this Motion for Rectification and Articulation for further articulation, as the comments are unhelpful in clarifying the reason the Superior Court opted not to act in awarding attorneys fees or interest. Although undersigned counsel recognizes that the Superior Court is correct it has broad equitable discretion in family matters, that discretion does not extend to allowing the Superior Court not to explain how it exercises that discretion.

With regards to the first request, the question is not one of equity but of law as it is the interpretation of the agreement dissolving the marriage. The agreement indicates that it is mandatory for the Superior Court to order fees to the party bringing an action to recover moneys for a breach of the agreement if the breach was "intentional and material." If the breach was not intentional and material, the Superior Court should articulate why that is the case because that is the only reason not to award an attorney's fee.

With regards to the second request, the Court does not explain why it opted not to award Dean Farmassony interest for funds that he should never have paid. It is well established that "The determination of whether or not interest is to be recognized as a proper element of damage, is one to be made in view of the demands of justice rather than through the application of any arbitrary rule.... The real question in each case is whether the detention of the money is or is not wrongful under the circumstances." (internal citation omitted) Dowd v. Dowd, 96 Conn. App. 75, 84 (2006). "When a former spouse is not justified in failing to pay sums due under a separation agreement, the award of interest is proper." LaBow v. LaBow, 13 Conn. App. 330, 353 (1988). In this case, it appears that the defendant wrongfully withheld money, and that the plaintiff is entitled to interest which the Superior Court did not award. If the Superior Court believes that this was not wrongful, the plaintiff would like an articulation as to why it is not wrongful.

With regards to the third request, Dean Farmassony asked the Court to explain why it opted to award a weekly payment rather than a lump sum or series of lump sums. As indicated, at $100.00 per month, the Plaintiff will not be reimbursed for 19 and 1/2 years. In addition, the rate of repayment per week is 1/2 of the rate the daycare was charged Mr. Farmassony per week. An articulation is necessary to determine why this was an adequate order to compensate the Plaintiff.

LEGAL GROUNDS

The Plaintiff-Appellant relies on Practice Book §§ 60-5, 61-10, 66-7, and the requirement that the Appellant create an adequate record for review, in presently moving for review of the lower court's inadequate articulation. "It is well established that [i]t is the appellant's burden to provide an adequate record for review.... It is, therefore, the responsibility of the appellant to move for an articulation or rectification of the record where the trial court has failed to state the basis of a decision." (Internal citations omitted.) D'Angelo Dev. and Constr. Corp. v. Cordovano, 121 Conn. App. 165, 187 (2010).

In lieu of refusing to review the issue, when the court determines that articulation is appropriate, the court may now order an articulation and then address the merits of the issue after articulation is provided. The adoption of subsection (b) is not intended to preclude the court from declining to review an issue where the record is inadequate for reasons other than solely the failure to seek an articulation, such as, for example, the failure to procure the trial court’s decision pursuant to Section 64-1 (b) or the failure to provide a transcript, exhibits or other documents necessary for appellate review.

On July 15, 2016, the plaintiff filed a motion for articulation, requesting that the court provide the factual and legal bases for denying both the motion for reconsideration and the joint motion to open and vacate. See part II of this opinion. On July 27, 2016, the court denied the plaintiff's motion for articulation, and the plaintiff subsequently filed in this court a motion for review of that denial. This court granted the motion for review and, on October 26, 2016, ordered the court to (1) articulate the factual and legal bases for its denial of the plaintiff's motion for reconsideration, and (2) issue a written memorandum of decision detailing the factual and legal bases for its denial of the joint motion to open and vacate.

City of Bridgeport](#), 320 Conn. 332, 344, 133 A.3d 402 (2016). "The trial court did not expressly address in its memorandum of decision the issue of Wheelabrator's standing to bring the second appeal. After Wheelabrator filed its appeal to this court from the judgments of the trial court, and the city filed its cross appeal, the city filed a motion for articulation in which it requested, among other things, that the trial court articulate the reason for its denial of the city's motion to dismiss the second appeal. The trial court sustained Wheelabrator's objection to that motion. The city then filed a motion for review with this court in which it requested that this court order an articulation on several issues. This court granted the motion for review in part but denied the motion to the extent that it requested articulation of the trial court's reasons for denying the motion to dismiss the second appeal."

The record does not reflect that the defendant sought appellate review of the court's denial of his articulation requests in accordance with Practice Book § 66-7. We note that, since this language was adopted in 1996; see Connecticut Law Journal, Vol. 57, No. 47 (May 21, 1996) p. 29E; the Appellate Court previously has disregarded an articulation by the trial court that was inconsistent with the trial court's original ruling, even though no party had filed a motion for review of the inconsistent articulation. See In re Christian P., supra, 98 Conn. App. 266-67 n. 4. Although there was no claim in that case that a motion for review is the sole means by which an inconsistent articulation may be challenged, we see no reason why the rule that the trial court cannot alter the substance of a ruling by way of an articulation should apply only in proceedings in which a motion for review has been filed. If the issue is raised on appeal, all parties have the opportunity to address it, and the record is otherwise adequate for review, nothing would be gained by requiring a court with appellate jurisdiction to treat an articulation that is inconsistent with the trial court's original ruling as an independent and equally valid ruling in the absence of a motion for review.

The court denied the motion, and the plaintiff filed a motion for review of the court's denial of its motion for articulation. On June 16, 2010, this court granted review and ordered the trial court to articulate the legal and factual basis for denying the plaintiff's request for postjudgment interest. In its articulation, the court explained that its decision to deny the plaintiff's request for postjudgment interest was based on three separate grounds: (1) interest awards under § 37-3a are discretionary, and not mandatory; (2) O'Hara v. State, 218 Conn. 628, 590 A.2d 948 (1991), supported the discretionary nature of the decision to award postjudgment interest; and (3) principles of equity counseled against awarding postjudgment interest in view of the circumstances of the case."

A Guide to Resources in the Law Library

SCOPE: Bibliographic resources relating to the Connecticut Practice Book section 66-6 appellate motion for review

DEFINITIONS: Sec. 66-6. Motion for Review; In General

“(a) The court may, on written motion for review stating the grounds for the relief sought, modify or vacate (1) any order made by the trial court under Section 66-1 (a); (2) any action by the appellate clerk under Section 66-1 (c); (3) any order made by the trial court, or by the administrative law judge in cases arising under General Statutes § 31-290a (b), relating to the perfecting of the record for an appeal or the procedure of prosecuting or defending against an appeal; (4) any order made by the trial court concerning a stay of execution in a case on appeal; (5) any order made by the trial court concerning the waiver of fees, costs and security under Section 63-6 or Section 63-7; or (6) any order concerning the withdrawal of appointed appellate counsel pursuant to Section 62-9 (d). Motions for review of the clerk’s taxation of costs under judgments of the court having appellate jurisdiction shall be governed by Section 71-3.”

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION:

“(b) Motions for review shall be filed within ten days of notice of the order sought to be reviewed. If the order is issued in connection with a motion that was filed with the appellate clerk, the motion for review shall be filed within ten days from the issuance of notice by the appellate clerk of the order from the trial court sought to be reviewed. Otherwise, if notice of the order sought to be reviewed is given by the trial court in open court with the party seeking review present, the time for filing the motion for review shall begin on that day; if notice is given to the party seeking review only by mail or electronic delivery, the time for filing the motion for review shall begin on the day that notice was sent to counsel of record by the clerk of the trial court.

(c) If a motion for review of a decision depends on a transcript of evidence or proceedings taken by an official court reporter or court recording monitor, the moving party shall file with the motion either a transcript or a copy of the transcript order confirmation. The opposing party may, within one week after the transcript or the copy of the order confirmation is filed by the moving party, file either a transcript of additional evidence or a copy of the order confirmation for additional transcript.”

- Rek v. Pettit, 214 Conn. App. 854, 856-857, 280 A.3d 1260 (2022). "Before this court are two motions for review filed by the plaintiffs. The first motion, filed on April 4, 2022, asks this court to review and reverse the court's March 8, 2022 order determining that there is no automatic appellate stay in effect. The second motion, filed on April 21, 2022, asks this court to review and reverse the court's March 22, 2022 order denying their request for a discretionary stay. On the first motion for review, we conclude that the underlying orders are visitation orders that are not automatically stayed pursuant to Practice Book § 61-11 (c). On the second motion for review, we conclude that the court did not abuse its broad discretion in denying the plaintiffs' request for a discretionary stay only insofar as the court ordered the parties to engage with a new therapist for the purposes of facilitating visitation; we reach a different conclusion with respect to the court's order suspending Caleb's contact with his long-term personal counselor. We therefore grant the plaintiffs' April 4, 2022 motion for review, but deny the relief requested therein, and grant the April 21, 2022 motion for review, and grant, in part, the relief requested therein."

"Because the defendant did not comply with Practice Book 62-9 (d) (3) and, instead, raised the issue in his direct appeal, we decline to review his claim." (p. 479)

". . . Practice Book § 79a-2(a) expressly provides that 'In no event shall the trial judge extend the time for filing the appeal to a date which is more than twenty days from the expiration date of the initial appeal period.' The motion filed by appellate review counsel recited due process of law as a basis for extending the time, and all judges are duty-bound to obey the constitution and ensure due process of law to those with matters before that judge. Since the practice book provides remedies from the appellate court that could include allowing late appeal, however, this court concludes that due process does not require a contrary result to that dictated by Practice Book Section 79a-2(a). See, e.g., Practice Book §§ 60-1, 60-2, 60-3, 66-6, and 66-7. (pp. 841-842)

"The language of Practice Book § 61-9 may be read to suggest that the court's use and occupancy order can be the subject of an amended appeal, as it occurred subsequent to the filing of the appeal from the judgment of eviction and was an order that the defendants desire to have reviewed. For the following reasons, however, we conclude that Practice Book § 61-9 is not applicable in the present situation and that counsel should have sought review, not by seeking to file an amended appeal, but by filing a motion for review pursuant to practice Book § 66-6." (p. 843)

"Practice Book § 61-14 provides in relevant part: 'The sole remedy of any party desiring the court to review an order concerning a stay of execution shall be by motion for review under [Practice Book §] 66-6. . . .' Section 66-6 provides for the expeditious review of such orders. A motion for review must be filed within ten days from the issuance of notice of the order to be reviewed.
