Barnes v. Connecticut Podiatry Group, P.C. . . . .	212
Medical malpractice; motion to preclude expert testimony; motion for summary judgment; claim that trial court erred in precluding plaintiff from disclosing additional expert witnesses; claim that trial court erred in adhering to prior order precluding disclosure of additional expert witnesses; whether trial court erred in precluding expert opinions of plaintiff's disclosed expert as to standard of care and causation; whether trial court erred in rendering summary judgment in favor of defendants.
Cunningham v. Commissioner of Correction . . . . .	63
Habeas corpus; claim that habeas court improperly rejected petitioner's claim that his trial counsel rendered ineffective assistance by failing to conduct adequate pretrial investigation into his theory of self-defense; whether petitioner failed to establish that trial counsel's performance was deficient or that he was prejudiced as result of alleged deficient performance; claim that habeas court improperly rejected petitioner's claim that his trial counsel rendered ineffective assistance by referring to petitioner as bully during closing argument; whether trial counsel's use of term bully during closing argument constituted sound trial strategy and, therefore, did not amount to deficient performance or fall below objective standard of reasonableness; whether habeas court properly determined that petitioner had not proven prejudice; whether there was reasonable probability that, but for trial counsel's alleged deficient performance, result of criminal trial would have been different.
HSBC Bank USA, National Assn. v. Karlen . . . . .	170
Foreclosure; summary judgment; claim that trial court improperly granted motion for summary judgment as to liability; whether plaintiff established undisputed prima facie case that it was entitled to foreclosure as matter of law; failure of plaintiff to provide trial court with copy or any evidence of terms of loan modification agreement that affected promissory note; whether defendants' failure to file objection to motion for summary judgment or to raise issue concerning absence of loan modification agreement via special defense or otherwise before trial court had effect on plaintiff's burden to establish prima facie case; whether plaintiff presented evidence that defendants defaulted on loan as modified by loan modification agreement.
HSBC Bank USA, National Assn. v. Nathan . . . . .	179
Foreclosure; special defenses; counterclaims; whether trial court properly granted motion to strike; whether defendants preserved right to appeal nonrepleaded counts of counterclaim; whether defendants preserved right to appeal certain special defense that they specifically had described as abandoned; claim that trial court erred in striking certain nonrepleaded counts of counterclaim, second amended laches defense and second amended counterclaim on the ground that they did not satisfy making, validity or enforcement test; whether allegations of postorigination misconduct by plaintiff satisfied making, validity or enforcement test.
Jacques v. Jacques . . . . .	59
Contracts; breach of parties' marital separation agreement; mootness; claim that trial court erred by concluding that action was barred by applicable statute of limitations (§ 52-576 [a]) and determining that it lacked continuing jurisdiction to enforce parties' separation agreement; whether claim that plaintiff's breach of contract action was not barred by statute of limitations was moot where plaintiff failed to challenge independent ground for court's adverse ruling.
Kolashuk v. Hatch . . . . .	131
Writ of error; claim that this court lacked subject matter jurisdiction; claim that writ of error should be dismissed because it was not taken from final judgment; claim that sanctions and attorney's fees issued against plaintiff in error did not terminate distinct and separate proceeding because relevant orders were issued during discovery phase of underlying personal injury case, requested cell phone records were necessary to resolve defendant in error's case, and those records were inextricably intertwined with defendant in error's case; claim that interlocutory order requiring witness to submit to discovery is not final judgment and, therefore, is not immediately appealable; claim that imposition of sanctions and attorney's fees against plaintiff in error did not terminate distinct and separate proceeding because trial court did not find plaintiff in error to be in contempt; whether trial court erred as matter of law by ordering plaintiff in error to produce cell phone records that neither he nor his client, who was defendant in underlying action, owned or possessed, and by issuing sanctions against plaintiff in error and awarding attorney's fees to counsel for defendant in error.

La Morte v. Darien (Memorandum Decision) . . . . . 901
Licari v. Commissioner of Correction (Memorandum Decision) . . . . . 902
Michael D. v. Commissioner of Correction. . . . . 6

Habeas corpus; claim that petitioner's trial counsel provided ineffective assistance in failing to challenge admission of pornographic magazine into evidence; whether habeas court properly determined that trial counsel's conduct in attempting to preclude magazine did not constitute deficient performance; claim that trial counsel provided ineffective assistance by failing to request instruction that jury must unanimously agree on factual basis for each guilty verdict; whether habeas court properly determined that petitioner failed to establish prejudice resulting from trial counsel's failure to request specific unanimity instruction.

Rossell v. Rossell (Memorandum Decision) . . . . . 902
Starboard Fairfield Development, LLC v. Gremp . . . . . 21

Vexatious litigation; breach of contract; slander of title; intentional interference with contract; breach of fiduciary duty; claim that trial court improperly determined that defendants breached general release by pursuing civil action against plaintiffs; failure to brief claim adequately; claim that trial court improperly found that defendants slandered plaintiff's title to certain property by filing his pendens and affidavit of fact pertaining to property on certain land records; whether trial court, as trier of fact, was free to discredit evidence provided at trial; whether this court was persuaded that trial court's finding of slander of title was either legally incorrect or factually unsupported; claim that trial court improperly found that defendants intentionally interfered with plaintiff's contract to sell certain property to third party; claim that trial court improperly awarded interest on amount held in escrow; whether defendants failed to brief argument beyond mere abstract assertion; claim that there was insufficient evidence for trial court to find that interference caused any actual loss; claim that trial court improperly awarded punitive damages without providing defendants adequate notice of hearing in accordance with rules of practice; whether defendants demonstrated that due process rights were violated or that trial court committed reversible error in calculating amount of punitive damages; whether record demonstrated that defendants had ample notice of hearing on punitive damages.

State v. Bradley . . . . . 36

Sale of controlled substance; violation of probation; claim that trial court erred in denying motions to dismiss charges; whether defendant, who is Caucasian, lacked standing to raise claim that his prosecution under Connecticut's statutes criminalizing possession and sale of marijuana violated his rights under equal protection clause of United States constitution because such statutes were enacted for illicit purpose of discriminating against persons of African-American and Mexican descent; whether trial court misapplied rule set forth in State v. Long (268 Conn. 508); whether defendant demonstrated that he had personal interest that had been or could be injuriously affected by alleged discrimination in enactment of relevant statute (§ 21a-277 [b]); whether defendant's claim alleged specific injury to himself beyond that of general interest of all marijuana sellers facing conviction under § 21a-277 (b); whether balancing of factors set forth in Powers v. Ohio (499 U.S. 400) pertaining to third-party standing weighed against defendant having standing to raise equal protection claim on behalf of racial and ethnic minorities who possessed constitutional rights that were allegedly violated; whether relationship between defendant and subject minority groups was close; whether there existed hindrance to ability of criminal defendant who is member of racial or ethnic minority group charged under § 21a-277 (b) from asserting his or her own constitutional rights in his or her own criminal prosecution.

State v. Brown . . . . . 244
Breach of peace in second degree; criminal violation of protective order; assault in third degree; claim that trial court improperly granted motion for joinder of cases; claim that trial court improperly allowed jury to consider prejudicial evidence of two different crimes; claim that trial court improperly allowed state to use prejudicial language during voir dire questioning; whether joinder resulted in substantial prejudice to defendant; whether two incidents leading to charges against defendant were discrete and easily distinguishable; whether assaults were so brutal or shocking as to interfere with jury’s ability to consider each offense fairly and objectively; unpreserved claim that defendant’s federal right to fair trial was violated when trial court allowed state to use prejudicial language during state’s voir dire questioning of potential jurors; whether trial court improperly allowed facts of case to be introduced in effort to remedy use of prejudicial language; whether introduction of phrases by state, such as “domestic violence,” “family violence,” and “dispute between roommates” during voir dire was improper; whether trial court abused its discretion in denying defendant’s request for continuance at start of trial to accommodate presence of witness.

State v. Colon (Memorandum Decision) . . . . . 902

State v. Francis . . . . . 113
Murder; claim that trial court improperly denied motion for judgment of acquittal; whether there was sufficient evidence for jury to have found defendant guilty of murder beyond reasonable doubt; claim that there was insufficient evidence to establish that defendant caused death of victim or that he had specific intent to cause victim’s death; consciousness of guilt evidence; request for this court to change its long-standing standard of review with respect to sufficiency of evidence claims to more rigorous standard that would require this court to determine if there was reasonable view of evidence that would support hypothesis of innocence; whether, as intermediate appellate court, this court could overrule Supreme Court authority.

State v. Jarmon . . . . . 262
Home invasion; burglary in first degree; robbery in first degree; stealing firearm; claim that state presented insufficient evidence to prove beyond reasonable doubt operability of each stolen firearm; whether cumulative effect of evidence supported jury’s ultimate conclusion that state demonstrated operability beyond reasonable doubt; claim that trial court erroneously admitted into evidence defendant’s letter written while incarcerated, which was intercepted by correction officer and forwarded to law enforcement; whether defendant’s claim that trial court erred in determining that correction officer followed department regulation was ever distinctly raised at trial; whether defendant proved that he had objectively reasonable expectation of privacy such that fourth amendment rights were violated; whether department regulation at issue was void for vagueness as applied to defendant; claim that defendant’s conviction of home invasion and burglary violated constitutional protection against double jeopardy; whether defendant showed that two charges arose out of same act or transaction; whether evidence allowed defendant’s crimes to be separated into parts, each of which constituted completed offense.

State v. Mekoshvili . . . . . 154
Murder; self-defense; claim that testimony regarding statements made by victim was irrelevant as to whether defendant killed victim or whether he acted with criminal intent; whether testimony demonstrated that defendant had financial motive in killing victim; claim that victim’s statements to wife were self-serving and backward looking, and did not satisfy state of mind exception to hearsay rule; whether trial court improperly allowed, pursuant to habit exception of hearsay rule, testimony regarding victim’s customary habit of leaving portion of taxi fee in glove compartment of taxi; whether testimony was relevant to issue of motive for defendant to kill victim; claim that state failed to provide adequate foundation for admission of testimony regarding habit evidence; whether trial court properly instructed jury with general unanimity charge and did not err in failing to grant defendant’s request for specific unanimity charge as to claim of self-defense.

State v. Mitchell . . . . . 199
Motion to correct illegal sentence; claim that sentence was imposed in illegal manner in violation of Santobello v. New York because defendant was sentenced after nine month period of Garvin agreement had ended; claim that sentence was imposed in illegal manner because defendant was not given adequate notice

	of sentencing hearing; claim that defendant was denied opportunity to make statement or to present evidence at sentencing hearing; claim that imposition of sentence violated applicable rule of practice (§ 43-29); whether trial court properly determined that defendant confused notice for violation hearing with notice for sentencing hearing.
State v. Mukhtaar . . . . .		1
	Murder; whether trial court improperly dismissed motion for second sentence review hearing and determined that it lacked subject matter jurisdiction to consider motion; whether defendant had right to second sentence review hearing.
State v. Tanner (Memorandum Decision) . . . . .		901
Streifel v. Bulkeley . . . . .		294
	Negligence; duty of care; summary judgment; claim that trial court improperly rendered summary judgment in favor of defendant; whether plaintiff waived any claim that trial court improperly failed to treat motion for summary judgment, which effectively challenged legal sufficiency of complaint, as motion to strike; claim that trial court improperly granted motion for summary judgment because question of whether defendant owed plaintiff duty of care involved question of fact reserved for jury; whether determination of whether duty of care existed under circumstances of this case was question of law; whether trial court was permitted to decide that no duty existed solely on public policy grounds; claim that applying test articulated in Murillo v. Seymour Ambulance Assn., Inc. (264 Conn. 474) to determine whether recognizing duty of care is inconsistent with public policy conflicts with state's abolition of doctrine of assumption of risk as complete bar to recovery; whether plaintiff's reliance on Sepega v. DeLaura (326 Conn. 788) to support claim was misplaced; claim that trial court incorrectly determined that imposing duty of care on defendant while plaintiff was furnishing medical care to him was inconsistent with public policy; whether this court should recognize, as matter of law, that patient owes duty of care to avoid negligent conduct that causes harm to medical care provider while patient is receiving medical care from that provider; whether application of relevant public policy considerations articulated in test in Murillo weighed against recognizing duty of care.
U.S. Bank, National Assn. v. Bennett . . . . .		96
	Foreclosure; special defenses; counterclaims; whether trial court properly rendered summary judgment as to vexatious litigation counterclaim; whether vexatious litigation counterclaim was premature; whether trial court properly rendered summary judgment as to abuse of process counterclaim; claim that genuine issues of material fact existed regarding trial court's previous dismissal of foreclosure action for failure to establish proper chain of custody; whether trial court properly determined that no genuine issues of material fact existed that plaintiff's primary purpose in filing present action was to prosecute foreclosure and that plaintiff was owner of note and mortgage; whether abuse of power counterclaim was premature; claim that trial court improperly relied on plaintiff's uncontested evidence of debt without holding evidentiary hearing.
Zillo v. Commissioner of Correction . . . . .		71
	Habeas corpus; sexual assault in first degree; risk of injury to child; ineffective assistance of trial counsel; whether habeas court abused its discretion when it denied petitioner's request to reinstate claim that had been withdrawn that trial counsel was deficient in failing to present certain medical testimony; claim that habeas court should have allowed into evidence documents that related to petitioner's medical condition; claim that trial counsel was ineffective in failing to pursue motion to dismiss based on statute of limitations in (§ 54-193a); whether there was any credible evidence to show actual commencement of statute of limitations in March, 1999; claim that trial counsel was ineffective in failing to object to allegedly harmful, inflammatory language in substitute information that was read by court clerk to jury; claim that trial counsel was ineffective by failing to assist petitioner in freely choosing whether to testify in own defense; claim that trial counsel was deficient in failing to pursue hearing pursuant to Franks v. Delaware (438 U.S. 154) in pretrial stage of criminal proceedings; claim that trial counsel was ineffective in failing to obtain victim's education records in order to undermine allegations; whether petitioner demonstrated any harm that was caused by absence of education records; claim that trial counsel provided ineffective assistance by failing to file motion to suppress evidence concerning photographs taken of petitioner's apartment during allegedly illegal search.
