State v. Leniart.	88
Capital felony; murder; certification from Appellate Court; whether unpreserved sufficiency claim under state common-law corpus delicti rule was reviewable on appeal; whether there was sufficient, corroborating evidence, independent of defendant's confessions, to sustain defendant's conviction; purpose, history, and scope of corpus delicti rule, discussed; whether Appellate Court correctly concluded that trial court's improper exclusion of video recording depicting polygraph pretest interview constituted harmful error; definition of categorically inadmissible polygraph evidence under State v. Porter (241 Conn. 57), discussed; claim that Appellate Court incorrectly concluded that trial court had abused its discretion in excluding expert testimony regarding credibility of incarcerated informants.
State v. Lewis	543
Carrying pistol without permit; criminal possession of pistol or revolver; certification from Appellate Court; whether Appellate Court correctly concluded that trial court had properly determined that seizure and patdown of defendant were lawful under federal and state constitutions and, therefore, had properly denied defendant's motion to suppress; claim that defendant was unlawfully seized when police officer stopped patrol vehicle and asked for his name or, alternatively, when officer exited his vehicle and approached defendant while asking him questions; whether officer had reasonable and articulable suspicion to seize defendant when officer commenced patdown search; claim that officer did not have reasonable and articulable suspicion that defendant might be armed and dangerous; interplay between domestic violence and reasonable and articulable suspicion that suspect is armed and dangerous, discussed.
State v. Marsan (Order)	939
State v. Martin (Order)	932
State v. McClean (Orders)	932
State v. McCleese	378
Murder; conspiracy to commit murder; assault first degree; whether trial court properly dismissed motion to correct illegal sentence for lack of jurisdiction on ground of mootness; claim that, under Connecticut constitution, parole eligibility afforded by recent legislation (P.A. 15-84, § 1) to certain juvenile offenders did not remedy violation of requirement in Miller v. Alabama (567 U.S. 460) and State v. Riley (315 Conn. 637) that juvenile offender's age and hallmarks of adolescence be considered as mitigating factors before juvenile may be sentenced to life imprisonment, or its functional equivalent, without possibility of parole; claim that P.A. 15-84 is unconstitutional under separation of powers doctrine embodied in article two of Connecticut constitution and due process clause of

fourteenth amendment to United States constitution; claim that P.A. 15-84 violated separation of powers by impermissibly delegating sentencing power to Board of Pardons and Paroles; claim that P.A. 15-84 violates defendant's right to equal protection under fourteenth amendment to United States constitution on ground that juveniles convicted of capital felony are entitled to resentencing under P.A. 15-84 whereas juveniles, such as defendant, who are convicted of murder, are not.
