Introduction
A Guide to Resources in the Law Library

- “Trespass to land is an unlawful invasion of another’s right of possession.” McPheters v. Loomis, 125 Conn. 526, 530, 7 A.2d 437 (1939).

- “Though standing on adjoining land the boys in shooting on to the respondent's land, were trespassers...” Munro v. Williams, 94 Conn. 377, 379, 109 A. 129 (1920).

- “A plaintiff's claim may fail simply as a result of his or her inability to establish adequately the disputed boundary line.” Velsmid v. Nelson, 175 Conn. 221, 224, 397 A.2d 113 (1978).

- “The court found that the fence had been erected on the boundary line between the parties, entered judgment accordingly, and assessed nominal damages for the trespass.” Baton v. Potvin, 141 Conn. 198, 199, 104 A.2d 768 (1954).

- “Title is an essential element in a plaintiff's case, where an injunction is sought to restrain a trespass. McNamara v. Watertown, 100 Conn. 575, 579, 124 A. 244. The burden is on the plaintiff to locate the boundary line.” Barrs v. Zukowski, 148 Conn. 158, 164-165, 169 A.2d 23 (1961).

- Adverse Possession: “This action was brought by the plaintiffs for trespass and for an injunction to restrain the defendants from encroaching on the land of the plaintiffs. The defendants filed a cross complaint claiming title by adverse possession to the contested four-foot area along the boundary of the property of the parties. The court rendered judgment for the defendants on the complaint and cross complaint, finding that the defendants had acquired ownership of the disputed area by adverse possession. It also found that the defendants had failed to prove that they were entitled to any damages.” Lavin v. Scascitelli, 172 Conn. 8, 8-9, 372 A.2d 127 (1976).

- Plot Plan: “At this time, it was found that trespass upon adjoining property occurred in entering and leaving the plaintiffs' back door and stoop. Prior to this discovery, the parties were unaware that there was a violation of the zoning regulations as to sideyard requirements. The defendant, under a mistaken assumption, had represented by the plot plan that the structure on the lot was twenty feet from the southerly boundary. Unaware of the true fact, the plaintiffs relied on this representation.” Richard v. A. Waldman & Sons, Inc., 155 Conn. 343, 346, 232 A.2d 307 (1967).
Section 1: Encroachment by Vegetation

SCOPE: Bibliographic resources relating to encroachments by vegetation on adjoining land

TREATED ELSEWHERE:

- Section 2: Encroachment by Structures

DEFINITION:

- "Where trees are located on the property of one party and their roots or branches extend onto the property of a second party, the latter may lop off the branches or roots up to the line of his land. Robinson v. Clapp, 65 Conn. 365, 377, 32 A. 939. We find nothing in the zoning regulations abrogating this right. This does not mean, of course, that complete disregard for the welfare of the trees is permitted." McCrann v. Town Plan & Zoning Commission, 161 Conn. 65, 75, 282 A.2d 900 (1971).

- "Now, if these branches were a nuisance to the defendant's land, he had clearly a right to treat them as such, and as such, to remove them. But he as clearly had no right to convert either the branches or the fruit to his own use." Lyman v. Hale, 11 Conn. 177, 185 (1836).

- Corbin v. HSBC Bank USA, N.A., Superior Court, Judicial District of Windham, No. CV15-6009704, n.5, (June 3, 2016) (62 Conn. L. Rptr. 451) (2016 WL 3536424). “The court is also persuaded by the defendant's argument that the Connecticut Legislature has attempted (and failed) to enact legislation that would require private landowners to pay for the removal of tree branches and limbs. The unsuccessful attempts provide support for the argument that no cause of action exists at common law for the present situation and a recognition of the potentially extraordinary costs such legislation could impose on adjoining landowners—especially in the wake of large storm events. Moreover, the court recognizes the discussion in Cordeiro v. Rockville General Hospital, Inc., Superior Court, judicial district of Tolland, Docket No. CV–07–5001627–S (August 21, 2007, Vacchelli, J.) (44 Conn. L. Rptr. 58), regarding negligence and the duty of reasonable care in inspection of trees. However, this court does not find such argument persuasive in the present matter and again finds the Restatement to be the more applicable holding.”

- Cordeiro v. Rockville General Hospital, Inc., Superior Court, Judicial District of Tolland, No. CV07-5001627 (August 21, 2007) (44 Conn. L. Rptr. 58) (2007 WL 2570406). “An owner of property in an urban area may be liable for injuries caused by the falling of a diseased or defective tree, but only if the owner had actual or constructive knowledge of the tree’s condition.”

- Rickel v. Komaromi, 144 Conn. App. 775, 778, 73 A. 3d 851 (2013). “On appeal, the plaintiff claims that the court erred in rendering summary judgment because (1) it did not address the plaintiff’s allegations and arguments in opposition to the defendants’ motion for summary judgment that the repeated bamboo encroachment from the defendants' property to her property constituted a continuing nuisance and a continuing trespass....”

• Dalling v. Weinstein, 6 Conn. Sup. 498, 499 (1939). "Where one's property is cast or stranded upon the land of another as a result of an act of God, such as a flood or hurricane, the owner of the property may enter upon the land where it is and recover it without being guilty of trespass . . . . Also, the owner of the stranded property has the option to abandon it. But no rights are given the owner of the land in the stranded property until and unless the owner thereof has exercised his option to abandon it."

LAW REVIEW ARTICLES:

Section 2: Encroachment by Structure
A Guide to Resources in the Law Library

SCOPE: Bibliographic resources relating to encroachments by structures on adjoining land.

TREATED ELSEWHERE:

- Encroachment by Vegetation

DEFINITION:

- Invasion of right: “The construction and maintenance of such a structure, like the construction and maintenance upon a house of eaves overhanging another's land, is an invasion of right, but not an ouster of possession. Randall v. Sanderson, 111 Mass. 114. The possession of the adjoining proprietor remains unaffected, except that it is rendered less beneficial. The possession and occupancy of the projecting structure has no effect on the ownership of the soil beneath, unless it be maintained under a claim of right for fifteen years, and so should ripen into a perpetual easement.” Norwalk Heating & Lighting Co. v. Vernam, 75 Conn. 662, 664, 55 A. 168 (1903).

- Equitable relief as remedy: “It follows that equitable relief was properly claimed and granted. While the plaintiff might have itself removed the nuisance, without appealing to the courts, it was not restricted to reliance upon self-help. Nor had it only a right of action for damages. An injunction might originally have been brought by the plaintiff's grantor to prevent the construction of the projection. This not having been done, the plaintiff could ask for a mandatory injunction to prevent its wrongful continuance.” Ibid.

- Mandatory Injunctions: “Since trespass is a possessory action, it is incumbent on the plaintiff to prove possession, actual or constructive, in order to recover. Banks v. Watrous, 136 Conn. 597, 599, 73 A.2d 329. If he relies on constructive possession, as distinguished from actual possession, he must prove, in addition to his title, the absence of actual exclusive possession by another. Radican v. Hughes, 86 Conn. 536, 545, 86 A. 220; Waterbury Clock Co. v. Irion, 71 Conn. 254, 262, 41 A. 827; Dawson v. Davis, 125 Conn. 330, 334, 5 A.2d 703. And if he seeks to enforce his rights by a mandatory injunction, he must show actual possession in himself, since injunctive relief cannot be used to take property out of the possession of one person in order to put it into the possession of another. Roy v. Moore, 85 Conn. 159, 166 82 A. 233.” More v. Urbano, 151 Conn. 381, 383-384, 198 A.2d 211 (1964).
On the Boundary Line: “. . . the defendants had constructed the stairs on the adjoining boundary line, thereby impermissibly encroaching on the plaintiff’s property.” Kelley v. Tomas, 66 Conn. App. 146, 151, 783 A.2d 1226 (2001).

CASES:

- Kelley v. Tomas, 66 Conn. App. 146, 157, 783 A.2d 1226 (2001). "Here, the court fashioned an equitable remedy to meet the needs of both parties. The court found that it would be useless to order the defendants to remove the stairs and restore the plaintiff’s property to its original condition because such an action would result in the construction of stairs that would be in violation of the Norwalk building code. The law does not require the doing of a useless act. We note that at no time did the plaintiff seek only the removal of the stairs from his property. Thus, on the basis of the facts reasonably discovered by the court, we conclude that it did not abuse its discretion when it allowed the stairs to remain despite the fact that they encroached on the plaintiff’s property."

"Our review of the record does not show that the court issued an injunction against the plaintiff. Paragraph eight of the judgment states: ‘The court entered an order that neither the plaintiff nor the defendants are to interfere with the other's use of the steps, landings and railing located between the two buildings.’ The plaintiff apparently confuses an order of the court with an injunction. It was within the court's inherent power to issue the order in an effort to effectuate its equitable remedy. ‘It is axiomatic that the Superior Court, as part of an independent and separate branch of government, has inherent power to do all that is reasonably necessary to enable the court to discharge its judicial responsibilities and to provide for the efficient administration of justice.’ Ruggiero v. Ruggiero, 55 Conn. App. 304, 307, 737 A.2d 997 (1999). Here, the court did not issue an injunction; it exercised its inherent authority to issue an order that would assist in the discharge of the equitable remedy that it decreed.” Ibid., 158.

• Bland v. Bregman, 123 Conn. 61, 66-67, 192 A. 703 (1937). “The complaint alleges that the garage of the defendants is built in such a manner that a portion of the building projects over and upon the land of the plaintiff....”

• Norwalk Heating & Lighting Co. v. Vernam, 75 Conn. 662 at 664 (1903). Self-help and injunction.

• Nixon v. Harper, 8 Conn. Supp. 8, 10 (1940). “A mandatory injunction to remove the offending structure should not issue. ’Where...there has been an innocent mistake...or laches on the part of the plaintiff, or where the conduct of the defendant was not wilful and inexcusable, and where the granting of the injunction would cause damage to the defendant greatly disproportionate to the injury of which plaintiff complains and it appear that damages will adequately compensate the latter...it would be inequitable to grant a mandatory injunction.’ Bauby vs. Krasow, 107 Conn. 109, 115. See, also, Waterbury Trust Co. vs. G. L. D. Realty Co., 124 id. 191, 199.

“With reference to the latter phase of the judgment, it should be said that it is based on the rule found in McGann vs. Hamilton, 58 Conn. 69, 73, concerning the measure of damage for a continuing trespass. ‘The true rule we understand to be, that where real estate is encroached upon, as is claimed in this case, the plaintiff will recover, not the full value of the land, but the damage he sustains in being deprived of its use; and such damage will be limited to past time.’” Ibid., 11.
