Introduction

A Guide to Resources in the Law Library

- “We must, however, consider, the paramount purpose of a property division pursuant to a dissolution proceeding [which] is to unscramble existing marital property in order to give each spouse his or her equitable share at the time of dissolution.” Greenan v. Greenan, 150 Conn. App. 289, 311, 91 A. 3d 909 (2014).

- “At the time of entering a decree annulling or dissolving a marriage or for legal separation pursuant to a complaint under section 46b-45, the Superior Court may assign to either the husband or wife all or any part of the estate of the other. The court may pass title to real property to either party or to a third person or may order the sale of such real property, without any act by either the husband or the wife, when in the judgment of the court it is the proper mode to carry the decree into effect.” Conn. Gen. Stat. § 46b-81(a) (2017).

- “As a general framework, [t]here are three stages of analysis regarding the equitable distribution of each resource: first, whether the resource is property within [General Statutes] § 46b-81 to be equitably distributed (classification); second, what is the appropriate method for determining the value of the property (valuation); and third, what is the most equitable distribution of the property between the parties (distribution).” Brady-Kinsella v. Kinsella, 154 Conn. App. 413, 423, 106 A.3d 956 (2014).

- Connecticut’s all property equitable distribution scheme: “It does not limit, either by timing or method of acquisition or by source of funds, the property subject to a trial court’s broad allocative power.” Krafick v. Krafick, 234 Conn. 783, 792, 663 A.2d 365 (1995).

- “Therefore, as a general rule, if a remand for new financial orders becomes necessary, absent some ’exceptional intervening circumstances,’ the date of the dissolution judgment (…not the date of the new trial on financial orders) is the proper time at which the court should value components of the parties’ estate in crafting its equitable property division orders.” Sunbury v. Sunbury, 216 Conn. 673, 676, 583 A.2d 366 (1990). O’Brien v. O’Brien, 161 Conn. App. 575, 587, 128 A.3d 595 (2015).

- “Importantly, ’[a] fundamental principle in dissolution actions is that a trial court may exercise broad discretion in… dividing property as long as it considers all relevant statutory criteria.’” Coleman v. Coleman, 151 Conn. App. 613, 617, 95 A.3d 569 (2014).

- “We conclude in part I A of this opinion that a trial court possesses inherent authority to make a party whole for harm caused by a violation of a court order, even when the trial court does not find the offending party in contempt. In part I B of this opinion, we conclude that the trial court properly exercised that authority in the present case.” O’Brien v. O’Brien, 326 Conn. 81, 96, 161 A.3d 1236, 1249 (2017).
Section 1: Connecticut's All Property Equitable Distribution Scheme

SCOPE:
Bibliographic resources relating to Connecticut’s all property equitable distribution scheme in distributing property as part of an action for dissolution, legal separation or annulment of marriage.

DEFINITIONS:
- "At the time of entering a decree annulling or dissolving a marriage or for legal separation pursuant to a complaint under section 46b-45, the Superior Court may assign to either the husband or wife all or any part of the estate of the other." Conn. Gen. Stat. § 46b-81(a) (2017). (Emphasis added.)
- "This approach to property division is commonly referred to as an 'all-property' equitable distribution scheme." Krafick v. Krafick, 234 Conn. 783, 792, 663 A.2d 365 (1995). (Emphasis added.)

CHECKLISTS:

CASES:
- Lawrence v. Cords, 165 Conn. App. 473, 483-484, 139 A.3d 778 (2016). "Although the court does not have the authority to modify a property assignment, a court, after distributing property, which includes assigning the debts and liabilities of the parties, does have the authority to issue postjudgment orders effectuating its judgment.” Roos v. Roos, 84 Conn. App. 415, 421-22, 853 A.2d. 642, cert. denied, 271 Conn. 936, 861 A.510 (2004). [I]t is ...within the equitable powers of the trial court to fashion whatever orders [are] required to protect the integrity of [its original] judgment.” Santoro v. Santoro, 70 Conn. App. 212, 217, 797 A.2d 592 (2002).
- Ferri, et al. v. Powell-Ferri, et al., 317 Conn. 223, 224-225, 116 A.3d 297 (2015). “This appeal arises from a dissolution action, dissolving the marriage of the named defendant, Nancy Powell-Ferri, and the defendant, Paul John Ferri, Jr. (Ferri). The dispositive issue in this appeal is whether the trial court properly rendered summary judgment in favor of Ferri on the cross complaint filed by Powell-Ferri on the ground that it failed to plead a legally sufficient cause of action. Specifically, Powell-Ferri’s cross complaint alleged that Ferri had breached his duty to preserve marital assets during the pendency of their marital dissolution action by failing to take any affirmative steps to contest the decanting of certain assets from a trust by the plaintiffs, Michael Ferri and Anthony Medaglia, who were then serving as trustees. We conclude that this state does not require a party to a dissolution action to take affirmative steps to recover marital assets taken by a third party and, accordingly, affirm the judgment of the trial court.”

- Radcliffe v. Radcliffe, 109 Conn. App. 21, 26 Fn.6, 951 A.2d 575 (2008). “In O'Neill, we observed that ‘an equitable distribution of property should take into consideration the plaintiff's contributions to the marriage, including homemaking activities and primary care taking responsibilities’; O'Neill v. O'Neill, [300]supra, 13 Conn. App. 311; and that ‘a determination of each spouses' contribution within the meaning of General Statutes § 46b-81 includes nonmonetary as well as monetary contributions.’ (Internal quotation marks omitted.) O'Neill v. O'Neill, [300] supra, 312.

- Ricciuti v. Ricciuti, 74 Conn. App. 120, 124 (2002). “Here, the defendant began receiving a pension from the Department of Defense after his retirement in 1996. The pension accrued over twenty-two years, during nineteen of which the parties were married. The court, therefore, correctly determined that the defendant's pension was subject to distribution under § 46b-81.”

- Mongillo v. Mongillo, 69 Conn. App. 472, 481-482, 794 A.2d 1054 (2002). “In fashioning its orders for the disposition of property, the court is obligated to consider the statutory factors relating to the disposition of property in marital dissolution. See General Statutes § 46b-81. The statutory scheme setting forth the criteria for the court’s exercise of discretion in making property awards provides no support for the plaintiff’s argument that it was error for the court not to award the plaintiff a portion of the defendant's retirement benefits.”

- Wendt v. Wendt, 59 Conn. App. 656, 673, 757 A.2d 1225, cert. den. 255 Conn. 918. (2000). “The court made extraordinary efforts to ensure that the valuation and the division of the marital property was within the bounds of our statutes, case law and constitution. We will not disturb the court’s thoughtful analysis and conclusion, which falls well within the bounds of its broad discretion.”

- Lopiano v. Lopiano, 247 Conn. 356, 365, 752 A.2d 1000 (1998). “Recent decisions from this court have indeed empowered trial courts to deal broadly with property and its equitable division incident to dissolution proceedings.”
Watson v. Watson, 221 Conn. 698, 607 A 2d. 383 (1992). “Trial court must be accorded discretion in fashioning equitable assignment of property. The power to act equitably is the keystone to the court’s ability to fashion relief in the infinite variety of circumstances which arise out of the dissolution of a marriage.”

Weiman v. Weiman, 188 Conn. 232, 235, 449 A.2d 151 (1982). “The division of property was structured in such a manner as to return to the defendant her contribution and that of her family. Payments for the defendant's counsel fees, medical bills, her outstanding debts and any capital gains tax on the property were to be made from the proceeds resulting from the sale of the real estate. The defendant, in addition, is to receive significant sums of money and one-half the remainder of the net proceeds from the sale of the real estate....

...The alimony awarded the defendant was not substantial in amount nor was it for a long period of time. When considered, in the context of other orders which required the plaintiff to pay for the full support, college education, and medical expenses of the five children of the marriage and to maintain insurance on his life for the benefit of the defendant, we cannot say the award is clearly erroneous.”

Lane v. Lane, 187 Conn. 144, 147, 444 A.2d 1377 (1982). "Differences inherent in particular family situations require that the court's discretion be broad enough to make suitable orders upon dissolution of marriage to fit the circumstances."

Carpenter v. Carpenter, 188 Conn. 736, 740-741, 453 A.2d 1151 (1982). 'While the trial court must consider the delineated statutory criteria, no single criterion is preferred over the others, and the court is accorded wide latitude in varying the weight placed upon each item under the peculiar circumstances of each case."

Tsopanides v. Tsopanides, 181 Conn. 248, 435 A.2d 34 (1980). “The principal issue raised by this appeal is whether in a dissolution action the court may properly render a judgment ordering the conveyance of property to a party who has not filed a claim for such relief.”

Section 2: Classification of Property
A Guide to Resources in the Law Library

SCOPE:
Bibliographic resources relating to what types of property are classified as property in Connecticut as part of an action for dissolution, legal separation or annulment of marriage.

DEFINITION:
- Classification of marital property: “whether the resource is property within § 46b-81 to be equitably distributed....” Krafick v. Krafick, 234 Conn. 783, 792-793, 663 A.2d 365 (1995).

- Marital property: “At the time of entering a decree annulling or dissolving a marriage or for legal separation pursuant to a complaint under section 46b-45, the Superior Court may assign to either the husband or wife all or any part of the estate of the other. The court may pass title to real property to either party or to a third person or may order the sale of such real property, without any act by either the husband or the wife, when in the judgment of the court it is the proper mode to carry the decree into effect.” Conn. Gen. Stat. § 46b-81 (2017).

- Types of property interests and expectancy: “Our Supreme Court in Mickey v. Mickey, 292 Conn. 597, 618-19, 974 A.2d (2009), further explained: ‘The legislature has not seen fit to define [the] critical term [property within the meaning of § 46b-81], leaving it to the courts to determine its meaning through application on a case-by-case basis...As we noted previously, this court has generally taken a rather broad and comprehensive view of the meaning of the term property for purposes of equitable distribution...We have not erased altogether, however, the limitations inherent in the term. We continue to recognize that the marital estate divisible pursuant to § 46b-81 refers to interests already acquired, not to expected or unvested interests, or to interests that the court has not quantified...’” Rousseau v. Perricone, 148 Conn. App. 837, 849, 88 A.3d 559 (2014).

STATUTES:
- Conn. Gen. Stat. (2017) § 46b-81(a). “At the time of entering a decree annulling or dissolving a marriage or for legal separation pursuant to a complaint under section 46b-45, the Superior Court may assign to either the husband or wife all or any part of the estate of the other. The court may pass title to real property to either party or to a third person or may order the sale of such real property, without any act by either the husband or the wife, when in the judgment of the court it is the proper mode to carry the decree into effect.” [Emphasis added.]

CASES:

- Amelia Wood v. David Wood, 170 Conn. App. 724, 732, 155 A.3d 816,821-822 (2017). "...When deciding to whom to assign property to, the court 'shall consider the length of the marriage, the causes for the ... dissolution of the marriage ... the age, health, station, occupation, amount and sources of income, earning capacity, vocational skills, education, employability, estate, liabilities and needs of each of the parties and the opportunity of each for future acquisition of capital assets and income. The court shall also consider the contribution of each of the parties in the acquisition, preservation or appreciation in value of their respective estates.' General Statutes § 46b-81 (c). Whether the parties made a contribution in the acquisition and preservation of property is a question of fact. ... Accordingly, this court can reverse the trial court's finding that the parties contributed equally to the accumulation and growth of the assets held by the parties as of the date of the dissolution only if it is found to be without any reasonable basis in the evidence. (Internal quotation marks omitted.) Kiniry v. Kiniry, 71 Conn. App. 614, 628, 803 A.2d 352 (2002).”

- Curtis Wood v. Deborah Wood, 160 Conn. 708, 717, 125 A.3d 1040 (2015). “The plaintiff’s interest in the LLC was previously acquired during the term of the marriage and was presently existing at the time of the trial. He possessed a contractual, enforceable right to the funds owed to him by the LLC under the terms of the agreement... We recognize that his receipt of the funds was contingent upon future events, i.e., the sale of the Dearfield Lane property at such a price that there would be enough proceeds from the sale for the LLC to pay off the liens, mortgages, and costs and then to pay the plaintiff the funds owed to him. It is well settled, however, that '[t]he fact that a contractual right is contingent on future events does not degrade that right to an expectancy.” (Internal quotation marks omitted.) Kafka v. Kafka, 234 Conn. 783, 797, 663 A.2d 365 (1995). We conclude, therefore, that the court properly characterized the plaintiff's interest in the LLC as distributable property for the purposes of § 46b-81.”

- Barcelo v. Barcelo, 158 Conn. App. 201, 226, 118 A. 3d 657 (2015). "Individual financial orders in a dissolution action are part of the carefully crafted mosaic the comprises the entire asset relocation plan ... Under the mosaic doctrine, financial orders should not be viewed as a collection of single disconnected occurrences, but rather as a seamless collection of interdependent elements. Consistent with that approach, our courts have utilized the mosaic doctrine as a remedial device that allows reviewing courts to remand cases for reconsideration of all financial orders even though the review process might reveal a flaw only in the alimony, property distribution or child support awards.”

- Reville v. Reville, 312 Conn. 428, 470-71, 93 A.3d 1076 (2014). “To summarize, the trial court improperly concluded that the defendant’s unvested pension, in May, 2001, definitively was not distributable marital property pursuant to § 46b–81. Because the court employed an incorrect legal analysis to conclude that the pension was not property, it improperly refused to admit and/or consider evidence of the pension’s value, evidence which was relevant to the issues of whether it had been disclosed and whether it would have affected the outcome of the dissolution action. Consequently, the trial court’s denial of the plaintiff’s motion to open was an abuse of discretion. The trial court applied the correct burden of proof to the plaintiff’s claim, and accordingly, did not commit plain error in that regard. The judgment is reversed and the case is remanded for further proceedings consistent with this opinion.”

“The value of the chose in action, on the other hand, determined at least in part by the party’s chances of prevailing may be unknown, and, indeed, the action may turn out to be worthless. Nevertheless, that fact is irrelevant to its classification as a property interest.” P.850.

- Mickey v. Mickey, 292 Conn. 597, 631, 974 A.2d 641 (2009). “...it is clear that, whatever interest the defendant had in potential disability payments under § 5-192p, that interest was not, at the time of dissolution, a presently existing enforceable right to a future benefit.” p.628.

“...analyzing an interest that does not become a ‘right,’ much less actual, possessory property, prior to the occurrence of some future event or events involves a second step. We must look at the nature of the contingency to determine whether it is so speculative as to be deemed a mere expectancy or, conversely, whether it is ‘sufficiently concrete, reasonable and justifiable as to constitute a presently existing property interest for equitable distribution purposes.' Bender v. Bender, supra, 258 Conn. 749...” p.629.

“Furthermore, such an interest, even if it was sufficiently concrete to constitute distributable property, could not be classified as distributable under the facts of this case. A benefit derived from an injury occurring years after a dissolution, meant solely to compensate for the loss of future wages, simply does not represent the ‘fruits’ of the marital partnership that §46b-81 is designed to equitably parse.” p.629.

- Ranfone v. Ranfone, 103 Conn. App. 243, 928 A.2d 575 (2007). “In Bender v. Bender, 258 Conn. 733, 745-46, 785 A.2d 197, the Supreme Court explained that ‘the theme running through’ our case law interpreting what property may be considered marital property pursuant to § 46b-81 ‘pays mindful consideration to the equitable purpose of our statutory distribution scheme, rather than to mechanically applied rules of property law. In order to achieve justice, equity looks to substance, and not to mere form.’ The court further explained that ‘retirement benefits, whether vested or unvested, are significant marital assets, and may be...the only significant marital asset. To consider...pension benefits a nondivisible marital asset would be to blink [the court’s] eyes at reality.’” p.251.

“...The Supreme Court explained: ‘The fact that a portion of the pension benefits, once vested, will represent the defendant’s service to the fire department after the dissolution does not preclude us from classifying the entire unvested pension as marital property.’” p.252.

- Kiniry v. Kiniry, 71 Conn. App. 614, 624 (2002). “On the one hand, stock options that are awarded prior to the date of dissolution and awarded solely for past services are considered to be earned during the marriage and are, therefore, considered marital property subject to equitable distribution under § 46b-81 . . . . On the other hand, stock options that are earned prior to the date of dissolution, but that constitute compensation for future services, are not considered to be earned during the marriage and, therefore, are not subject to distribution as marital property under § 46b-81.”

- Bender v. Bender, 258 Conn. 733, 748, 785 A.2d 197 (2001). “[I]n determining whether a certain interest is property subject to equitable distribution under § 46b-81, we look to whether a party’s expectation of a benefit attached to that interest was too speculative to constitute divisible marital property . . . . In cases in which an interest was so speculative as to constitute a mere expectancy, we concluded that it was not property subject to equitable distribution . . . whereas, in cases in which an interest was not so speculative as to constitute a mere expectancy, but rather a presently existing interest in property, we treated it as property subject to equitable distribution.”

- Borneman v. Borneman, 245 Conn. 508, 517-518, 752 A.2d 978 (1998). “Despite the fact that the stock options at issue in this case had not yet "matured" or "vested" at the time of dissolution, the options created an enforceable right in the defendant.”

- Simmons v. Simmons, 244 Conn. 158, 168, 708 A.2d 949 (1998). “Consequently, we conclude that an advanced degree is properly classified as an expectancy rather than a presently existing property interest. It is not, therefore, subject to equitable distribution upon dissolution pursuant to § 46b-81.”

- Cooley v. Cooley, 32 Conn. App. 152, 162-163, 628 A.2d 608, cert. denied 228 Conn. 901, 634 A.2d .295 (1993). “The plaintiff had no vested right at any time to the trust corpus that would permit its inclusion in the marital estate.”

- Rubin v. Rubin, 204 Conn. 224, 232, 527 A.2d 1184 (1987). “We have concluded that the award to the defendant of a share of the plaintiff’s expectancy cannot be sustained as a permissible transfer of property under 46b-81.”

Section 3: Valuation of Assets

A Guide to Resources in the Law Library

SCOPE: Bibliographic resources relating to valuation of property determined to be property assets relating to marriage.

SEE ALSO: Section 4. Specific issues in property valuation

DEFINITIONS:

- Fair market value: “the price that would probably result from fair negotiations between a willing seller and a willing buyer, taking into account all of the factors...” Brooks v. Brooks, 121 Conn. App. 659, 668 (2010).

- Determination of Value: “We begin our analysis by noting that a trial court has broad discretion in determining the value of property. In assessing the value of ...property...the trier arrives at his own conclusions by weighing the opinions of the appraisers, the claims of the parties, and his own general knowledge of the elements going to establish value, and then employs the most appropriate method of determining valuation...The trial court has the right to accept so much of the testimony of the experts and the recognized appraisal methods which they employed as he finds applicable; his determination is reviewable only if he misapplies, overlooks, or gives a wrong or improper effect to any test or consideration which it was his duty to regard. (Internal quotation marks omitted.) Porter v. Porter, 61 Conn. App. 791, 799-800, 769 A.2d 725 (2001).” Wood v. Wood, 160 Conn. App. 708, 718, 125 A.3d 1040 (2015).

- Date of valuation: “Therefore, as a general rule, if a remand for new financial orders becomes necessary, absent some 'exceptional intervening circumstances,' the date of the dissolution judgment (...not the date of the new trial on financial orders) is the proper time at which the court should value components of the parties’ estate in crafting its equitable property division orders.' Sunbury v. Sunbury, 216 Conn. 673, 676, 583 A.2d 636 (1990).” O’Brien v. O’Brien, 161 Conn. App. 575, 587, 128 A.3d 595 (2015).

CASES:

- Anderson v. Anderson, 160 Conn. App. 341, 352, 125 A.3d 606 (2015). "At the outset, we note that, as a general proposition, ‘the trial court need not necessarily specify a valuation method used. Nor is the court required to set forth specific factors that were considered in arriving at that determination.’ (Internal quotation marks omitted.) Brooks v. Brooks, 121 Conn. App. 659, 667, 997 A.2d 504 (2010). In this case, neither party provided that court with expert testimony regarding the value of the property in Jamaica. As a result, the court was left to rely on the testimony of the parties and its general knowledge to establish the value of the property.”

- Martin v. Martin, 101 Conn. App. 106, 121, 920 A.2d 340 (2007). “[t]he principle that requires the court to value assets as of the date of dissolution does not absolutely preclude the court from considering the significance of the date of separation...[T]he date of separation may be of significance in determining what is equitable at the time of distribution. In distributing property... the court is instructed to consider the contribution of each spouse in the acquisition, preservation and appreciation of the marital estate.”

- Sowinski v. Sowinski, 72 Conn. App. 25, 27, 804 A.2d 872 (2002). “On appeal, the defendant specifically challenges the court’s finding with regard to the fair market value of the Copake property and requests that we reverse the court’s financial orders. He points out that the parties disputed the value of the Copake property at trial despite the fact that they had stipulated to the value of the Salisbury property. The defendant argues that the court improperly admitted hearsay as to that issue and that the court relied on such hearsay, in the absence of any other competent evidence in support of its finding, when arriving at its valuation of the Copake property. We agree.”

- Porter v. Porter, 61 Conn. App. 791, 800, 769 A.2d 725 (2001). “Here, neither party provided the court with expert testimony as to the value of the home. As a result, the court was left with the claims of the parties and its general knowledge to establish the value of the home. According to the defendant, the value of the home was $285,000. The court, however, determined the value to be $270,000, a figure slightly less than the value proposed by the plaintiff, $271,750, which she derived from the mid range of a market..."
analysis. Given the circumstances the court faced in determining the value of the marital home, we cannot conclude that its valuation of $270,000 was clearly erroneous.”

- Bender v. Bender, 258 Conn. 733, 760, 785 A.2d 197 (2001). "We conclude that it is within the trial court's discretion, as it is in the context of vested pension benefits . . . to choose, on a case-by-case basis, among the present value method, the present division method of deferred distribution, and any other valuation method that it deems appropriate in accordance with Connecticut law . . . .”

- Bornemann v. Bornemann, 245 Conn. 508, 531, 752 A.2d 978 (1998). "The court need not, however, assign specific values to the parties' assets.”

- Carlos v. Carlos, 19 Conn. App. 416, 419, 562 A.2d 580 (1989). "More important than any speculation about how the trial court might have arrived at the amount of the encumbrances is the fact that the parties had never agreed on these figures. We read the memorandum of decision as stating that the parties stipulated to facts including the total amount of the encumbrances. For that reason, we are constrained to find that the underpinning of the decision is not sound even though the award may be fair.”

- Cuneo v. Cuneo, 12 Conn. App. 702, 709, 533 A.2d 1226 (1987). "That requirement is simply part of the broader principle that the financial awards in a marital dissolution case should be based on the parties' current financial circumstances to the extent reasonably possible.”

- Turgeon v. Turgeon, 190 Conn. 269, 274-275, 460 A.2d 1260 (1983). "We have approved the capitalization of actual income as an appropriate method of valuation . . . . In the present case the defendant's company was, at the time of its valuation in 1980, a going concern. There was no evidence that it was in the process of liquidation. Although the trier was not obliged to accept the income approach he was not precluded from doing so merely because the company is a closely held, 'one-man' business.”

- Valante v. Valante, 180 Conn. 528, 529-530, 429 A.2d 964 (1980). "The defendant first contends that the court could not properly decide the questions of periodic alimony and the assignment of property because it lacked sufficient information respecting the value of the plaintiff's interest in a closely held corporation, in his life insurance policies and in his pension rights. This position is curious. In addition to having access to the plaintiff's financial affidavit, the defendant was given a full opportunity to cross-examine the plaintiff at length regarding his financial circumstances. Further, the defendant had the opportunity to explore the plaintiff's financial circumstances through a variety of discovery procedures. Optimal use of the resources might well have generated additional pertinent facts for the court's consideration. From the defendant's failure to elicit such information, however, it in no way follows that the court acted on insufficient evidence. Reviewing the record in this regard, we find that there was sufficient financial information before the court for it to fashion the appropriate orders on the financial aspects of the case.”

Bibliographic resources relating to the valuation of specific types of assets including pensions, professional licenses, degrees, and Qualified Domestic Relations Orders (QDROs).

DEFINITIONS:
• Goodwill: “It can hardly be doubted that the increment of value, loosely termed goodwill, that arises from the established reputation of a business for the quality of its goods or services may often be found to enhance the value of professional as well as other enterprises by increasing their ability to attract patrons.” Eslami v. Eslami, 218 Conn. 801, 813, 591 A.2d 411 (1991).

CASES:
• Dinunzio v. Dinunzio, 180 Conn. App. 64, 75, 189 A.3d 706, 713 (2018). “The court did not mention the plaintiff’s pension in its property distribution orders, omitting it completely from the category entitled: ‘Pension, IRA and Retirement Assets.’ It thus did not assign the pension a value, or order that it be distributed to either party. Nowhere in its decision, moreover, did the court state that it was considering the pension as an offset or a balance against any of its other financial orders. It is therefore clear that the trial court improperly classified the plaintiff’s pension only as a source of income, not as property subject to equitable distribution.”

"[T]he issues involving financial orders are entirely interwoven, [and] [t]he rendering of a judgment in a complicated dissolution case is a carefully crafted mosaic, each element of which may be dependent on the other." (Internal quotation marks omitted.) Grant v. Grant, 171

Because the trial court’s failure to classify the plaintiff’s pension as property for equitable distribution is not severable from its other financial orders, this case must be remanded for a new trial on all financial orders.”

- Grant v. Grant, 171 Conn. App. 851, 863, 158 A.3d 419, 427 (2017). "As is often stated, we do not reverse the factual findings of the trial court unless they are clearly erroneous and find no support in the evidence." (Emphasis in original; internal quotation marks omitted.) Szynkowicz v. Szynkowicz, supra, 140 Conn. App. 542. Under the circumstances of this case, the court’s finding the defendant in contempt for violating the automatic orders was clearly erroneous because the evidence at trial suggested that the defendant spent money from his retirement account for customary and usual household expenses. The court failed to identify any expenditures that violated the automatic orders in its articulation. See Practice Book § 25-5 (b). The court, therefore, abused its discretion with respect to this claim.”

- Powell-Ferri v. Ferri, 326 Conn. 457, 472, 165 A.3d 1124, 1133 (2017). Furthermore, imposing an obligation on parties in divorce proceedings to bring separate actions against third parties, particularly when that party feels that filing such an action is against their best interest, is poor public policy and could lead to untenable results. … The automatic orders do not require Ferri to take all conceivable actions to recover assets not under his control.

“Because Ferri was unaware of the decanting, he could not have taken any affirmative acts or in any way assisted in the dissipation of marital assets. Ferri did not affirmatively engage in the type of intentional waste or selfish impropriety necessary to constitute dissipation. See Gershman v. Gershman, supra, 286 Conn. 350-51; see also Ferri v. Powell-Ferri, 317 Conn. 223, 225, 116 A.3d 297 (2015).”

- Anderson v. Anderson, 160 Conn. App. 341, 343, 125 A.3d 606 (2015). “The court ordered that the defendant would retain her pension, with no claim to it by the plaintiff. The court lastly ordered the plaintiff to transfer to the defendant, by way of a qualified domestic relations order, $43,158.65, ‘due to an outstanding loan of $20,000 in order to equalize the parties’ retirement accounts.’”

- Cifaldi v. Cifaldi, 118 Conn. App. 325, 332-333, 983 A.2d 293 (2009). “A QDRO is merely an administrative tool used to effectuate the transfer of marital property, in this case pension benefits, from an employee to a nonemployee spouse….We do not read the parties’ agreement in the case before us to make the vesting of the plaintiff’s property interest in a portion of the defendant’s pension benefits to be in some way contingent on the successful processing of the QDROs. To put it simply, we conclude that the plaintiff’s property interest in portions of the defendant’s pension benefits was not predicated on the processing of paperwork; the plaintiff cannot be deprived of this important asset on the basis of a mere administrative error.”

- Hannon v. Redler, 117 Conn. App. 403, 408-409, 979 A.2d 558 (2009). “... the lack of evidence from the defendant did not preclude the court from determining the value of his interest in the medical practice and providing an equitable distribution of this asset. It was not improper for the court to value the asset, by way of the testimony before it, on the basis of the buyout agreement’s value of the defendant’s interest in the medical practice...

...Our Supreme Court, in Bornemann v. Bornemann, supra, 245 Conn. 508, noted that “when neither party in a dissolution proceeding chooses to introduce detailed information as to the value of a given asset, neither party may later complain that it is not satisfied with the court’s valuation of that asset.”

- Kiniry v. Kiniry, 71 Conn. App. 614, 624 (2002). “On the one hand, stock options that are awarded prior to the date of dissolution and awarded solely for past services are considered to be earned during the marriage and are, therefore, considered marital property subject to equitable distribution under § 46b-81 . . . . On the other hand, stock options that are earned prior to the date of dissolution, but that constitute compensation for future services, are not considered to be earned during the marriage and, therefore, are not subject to distribution as marital property under § 46b-81.”

- Eslami v. Eslami, 218 Conn. 801, 814, 591 A.2d 411 (1991). “We reject the notion that professional goodwill may be evaluated without consideration of the salability of the practice and the existence of a market for its purchase.”

- Krafick v. Krafick, 234 Conn. 783, 799, 663 A.2d 365 (1995). “We next must determine how vested pension benefits should be valued and distributed. The task of properly valuing pension benefits is complex because such benefits may be defeasible by the death of the employee spouse before retirement and the amount of benefits ultimately received depends upon a number of factors that remain uncertain until actual retirement. Therefore, a trial court, in valuing the parties' assets upon dissolution, has considerable discretion in selecting and applying an appropriate valuation method.”

1. Present value (or offset) method

"The first method involves placing a present value on the retirement plan, as of the date of dissolution, by using actuarial tables to determine the life expectancy of the employee-spouse, by considering all the circumstances of the case, and by evaluating the probability that the employee-spouse will eventually exercise his or her rights under the retirement plan." In re Marriage of Grubb, 745 P.2d 661 (Colo. 1987).

"Calculating a pension's present value depends on several factors, including the employee spouse's life expectancy, the proper interest rate for discount and the date of retirement." Krafick v. Krafick, 234 Conn. 783, 800, 663 A.2d 365 (1995).

"Once the court has determined the present value of the benefits at issue, it may, in light of relevant equitable considerations, award those benefits to the employee spouse and/or may offset the nonemployee's equitable share in the pension benefits with an award of other assets." Krafick v. Krafick, 234 Conn. 783, 801, 663 A.2d 365 (1995).

Advantage: The offset method has the advantage of effecting a ‘clean break’ between the parties.” Krafick v. Krafick, 234 Conn. 783, 802, 663 A.2d 365 (1995).

Disadvantage: "The drawback to the offset method is that it places the entire risk of forfeiture before maturity on the employee spouse. Further, this method is not feasible when there are insufficient other assets by which to offset the value of the pension . . . ." Krafick v. Krafick, 234 Conn. 783, 802, 663 A.2d 365 (1995).

Once you have identified useful cases, it is important to update the cases before you rely on them. Updating case law means checking to see if the cases are still good law. You can contact your local law librarian to learn about the tools available to you to update cases.
2. Present Division Method

“Under the ‘present division’ method, the trial court determines at the time of trial, the percentage share of the pension benefits to which the nonemployee spouse is entitled. The court may then, through a QDRO for pensions covered by ERISA or some equivalent if the non-ERISA plan permits, presently divide or assign the pension benefits between the spouses.” Krafick v. Krafick, 234 Conn. 783, 803, 663 A.2d 365 (1995).

“. . . favored when there are insufficient assets to offset the award of the pension to the employee spouse alone or when the evidence is inadequate to establish present value.” Krafick v. Krafick, 234 Conn. 783, 804, 663 A.2d 365 (1995).

3. Reserved Jurisdiction Method

“Alternatively, under the ‘reserved jurisdiction’ method, the trial court reserves jurisdiction to distribute the pension until benefits have matured. Once matured, the trial court will determine the proper share to which each party is entitled and divide the benefits accordingly.” Krafick v. Krafick, 234 Conn. 783, 803, 663 A.2d 365 (1995).

“. . . favored when there are insufficient assets to offset the award of the pension to the employee spouse alone or when the evidence is inadequate to establish present value.” Krafick v. Krafick, 234 Conn. 783, 804, 663 A.2d 365 (1995).

“These methods are not exclusive.

A trial court retains discretion to select any other method to take account of the value of a pension asset ‘that might better address the needs and interests of the parties.’ In re Marriage of Grubb, supra, 745 P.2d 666. The touchstone of valuation, as well as the ultimate distribution of pension benefits, is the court’s ‘power to act equitably.’ Pasquariello v. Pasquariello, 168 Conn. 579, 585, 362 A.2d 835 (1975).” Krafick v. Krafick, 234 Conn. 783, 804, 663 A.2d 365 (1995).

Section 5: Distribution of Property
A Guide to Resources in the Law Library

SCOPE:
Bibliographic materials resources relating to methods and formulas for division of assets relating to marriage.

DEFINITIONS:

- Coverture: “is defined as ‘[t]he status and rights of the wife arising from the marriage relationship’; Ballentine's Law Dictionary (3d Ed. 1989); and has a long history of use regarding marital assets.” Wendt v. Wendt, 59 Conn. App. 656, 666, 757 A.2d 1225 (2000).

- Coverture fraction: “established by the court for the unvested stock options consisted of a fraction, ‘the denominator of which shall be the number of months from the date of grant to the date of vesting [when the options no longer will be] subject to divestment, and the numerator [of which shall] be the number of months from the date of grant to December 1, 1995 [the date of the parties' separation].’ Specifically, the plaintiff challenges the coverture numerator, contend[ing] that the court should have used the date that the defendant's employment commenced instead of the date that the unvested assets were granted and the date of dissolution instead of the date of separation. We disagree.” Wendt v. Wendt, 59 Conn. App. 656, 666, 757 A.2d 1225 (2000).

STATUTES:

  (c). "In fixing the nature and value of the property, if any, to be assigned, the court, after hearing the witnesses, if any, of each party, except as provided in subsection (a) of section 46b-51, shall consider the length of the marriage, the causes for the annulment, dissolution of the marriage or legal separation, the age, health, station, occupation, amount and sources of income, vocational skills, employability, estate, liabilities and needs of each of the parties and the opportunity of each for future acquisition of capital assets and income. The court shall also consider the contribution of each of the parties in the acquisition, preservation or appreciation in value of their respective estates.”

CASES:

- O’Brien v. O’Brien, 161 Conn. App. 575, 577, 128 A.3d 595 (2015). “The dispositive issue...in the present appeal is whether, after remand, the court improperly skewed its equitable distribution of marital assets in favor of the defendant on the ground that the plaintiff had engaged in certain financial transactions, both prior to the dissolution judgment and while the appeal from that judgment was pending, that violated the automatic orders applicable in all marital dissolution actions. See Practice Book § 25-5.”

- Schneider v. Schneider, 161 Conn. App. 1, 127 A.3d 298 (2015). “The plaintiff,...appeals from the judgment of the trial court denying his motion for an order that the defendant,...reimburse him for mortgage payments he made after she failed to make payment as required by the original judgment dissolving the parties’ marriage...We agree and conclude that the court’s denial constituted an improper modification of the property distribution order.” P.2-3.

“...In contrast, an order effectuating an existing judgment allows the court to protect the integrity of its original ruling by ensuring the parties’ timely compliance therewith. (Internal quotation marks omitted.) Perry v. Perry, 156 Conn. App. 587, 595, 113 A.3d 132 (2015)” P.6.

- McLoughlin v. McLoughlin, 157 Conn. App. 568, 581. 118 A.3d 64 (2015). “...pursuant to the parties’ separation agreement, the division of the parties’ personal property was left to the parties to accomplish, and, if they were unable to do so, they agreed to binding mediation. There was no language in the dissolution judgment retaining the court’s authority to effectuate a distribution order or to aid the parties in the event a dispute later arose...the parties in the present case were unable to complete the division of their personal property, leaving the parties in legal limbo. Nevertheless, the trial court was without any statutory authority to issue an order resolving the parties’ dispute over the distribution of their personal property, as that authority existed only at the time the marriage was dissolved. The division of personal property was clearly contemplated by the parties and the court at the time of dissolution, and was left to the parties, so no oversight or omission can be claimed.”

- Sousa v. Sousa, 157 Conn. App. 587, 596, 116 A.3d 865 (2015). “...A court, therefore, does not have the authority to modify the division of property once the dissolution becomes final.’ (Citations omitted; footnotes added; internal quotation marks omitted.) Stechel v. Foster, 125 Conn. App. 441, 446-47, 8 A.3d 545 (2010). cert. denied, 300 Conn. 904, 12 A.3d 572 (2011). A property distribution order may be modified only if a party files a motion to open requesting a modification within four months of the judgment of dissolution or, if the motion is filed on the basis of fraud, promptly upon the discovery of fraud.”

- Coleman v. Coleman, 151 Conn. App. 613, 618-619, 95 A.3d 569 (2014). “... As noted, the plaintiff urges this court to conclude that when one spouse inherits from his or her family, the amount of that inheritance should be separated from other assets acquired during the course of the marriage and the court, in treating an inherited asset, should place particular weight on the failure of the noninheriting spouse to contribute at all to the acquisition of the inheritance. It is noteworthy that in making this argument, the plaintiff would have this court ignore his own lack of participation in the acquisition of this inherited asset.”

- De Repentigny v. De Repentigny, 121 Conn. App. 451, 461-462, 995 A.2d 117 (2010). “In regard to its decision to grant ownership of de Assembly to the defendant, the court found that ‘[t]hroughout the marriage, although both parties made contributions to the acquisition, maintenance and reservation of this asset, the evidence clearly supports a finding that the defendant’s contribution was significantly greater.’ Given the court’s findings regarding the level of the respective parties’ involvement with and management of de Assembly, and the inherent difficulty one could expect were a divorced couple required to operate a business together, we will not second-guess the court’s decision to grant ownership of de Assembly to the defendant.”

- Sapper v. Sapper, 109 Conn. App. 99, 110-111, 951 A.2d 5 (2008). “...The court properly considered the liquidation of the college funds in ordering their replenishment as part of the distribution of the marital property. The plaintiff also claims that the court improperly considered the issue of fault in awarding the defendant 80 percent of the remaining proceeds of the marital estate. He is mistaken.”

- Wendt v. Wendt, 59 Conn. App. 656, 666, 757 A.2d 1225 (2000). “In modern times, a coverture factor has reemerged as a mechanism for apportioning between spouses the benefit or value of unvested stock options, retirement plans or other benefits that were earned partially during and partially after the marriage.”

- Damon v. Damon, 23 Conn. App. 111, 114, 579 A.2d 124 (1990). “The plaintiff complains that the judgment, providing that the contents of the home "shall become the sole property of the defendant unless within one month of the date of the judgment the parties agree on a division of said contents between themselves," is an improper delegation of the court’s power to make the distribution. The essential meaning of these words is that the defendant would be the owner of the personalty unless she chose to give the plaintiff some of it. The court did not, therefore, delegate its authority to distribute assets.”
Equitable Distribution of Property

- Vincent v. Vincent, 178 Conn. 212 at 212, 423 A.2d 879 (1979). “In this action, both parties alleged that the marriage was broken down irretrievably. The court dissolved the marriage and ordered that the real estate in the name of the plaintiff husband be transferred to the defendant wife and then be sold by the defendant without delay. Upon completion of the sale, deducting all necessary expenses, the net proceeds were to be divided equally between the parties. The plaintiff husband has appealed from this judgment.”

- Murphy v. Murphy, 180 Conn. 376, 378, 429 A.2d 897 (1980). “Rather than determine what each party had contributed to every category of property in dispute, that is, real property, personal property, bank accounts, and other assets, the court considered their property as a whole.”

- Croke v. Croke, 4 Conn. App. 663, 663-664, 496 A.2d 235 (1985). “The judgment of December 11, 1980, provides that the plaintiff has the right to occupy jointly owned real property located at 276 Park Street in New Canaan, with the parties' minor child until the minor child attains age eighteen, or residential custody of the minor child is transferred to the defendant, or the death or remarriage of the plaintiff or her cohabitation with another person under circumstances which would warrant the modification of periodic alimony pursuant to the provisions of General Statutes 46b-86, or the plaintiff elects to vacate the premises.”

- Ivey v. Ivey, 183 Conn. 490, 493, 439 A.2d 425 (1981). “The decree rendered in the present case was of the second type, i.e., it ordered the plaintiff to transfer her interest in the Florida property to the defendant. The order did not purport to transfer title to out-of-state realty by its own terms. The plaintiff's argument that the court below was bound to apply Florida law, when it made its order relating to the Florida land, lacks merit. Inasmuch as the decree did not directly affect title to the Florida lands, this dissolution action did not differ materially from any other dissolution.”

Section 6: Factors in Equitable Distribution of Property

SCOPE:
Bibliographic resources relating to non-financial factors to be considered in the equitable distribution of property.

STATUTES:
  (c). “In fixing the nature and value of the property, if any, to be assigned, the court, after hearing the witnesses, if any, of each party, except as provided in subsection (a) of section 46b-51, shall consider the length of the marriage, the causes for the annulment, dissolution of the marriage or legal separation, the age, health, station, occupation, amount and sources of income, vocational skills, employability, estate, liabilities and needs of each of the parties and the opportunity of each for future acquisition of capital assets and income. The court shall also consider the contribution of each of the parties in the acquisition, preservation or appreciation in value of their respective estates.”

CHECKLISTS:
  Part III. Assessing the statutory criteria
  § 6.07. Checklist: Assessing the statutory criteria

CASES:
- Kent v. DiPaola, 178 Conn. App. 424, 431-432, 175 A.3d 601, 606-607 (2017). “In dividing up property, the court must take many factors into account. . . . A trial court, however, need not give each factor equal weight . . . or recite the statutory criteria that it considered in making its decision or make express findings as to each statutory factor.” (Citation omitted; internal quotation marks omitted.) Wood v. Wood, 160 Conn. App. 708, 720-21, 125 A.3d 1040 (2015); see also O’Brien v. O’Brien, 326 Conn. 81, 121-22, 161 A.3d 1236 (2017); Emerick v. Emerick, 170 Conn. App. 368, 378, 154 A.3d 1069, cert. denied, 327 Conn. 922, 171 A.3d 60 (2017).”

- Valentine v. Valentine, 164 Conn. App. 354, 367,141 A.3d 884, 892-893 (2016). “The court’s orders with respect to the marital home do not offend the basic elements of fairness in light of the plaintiff’s age, education, talents, good health, sources of unsalaried income, and ability to seek gainful employment...In view of financial orders and a property division where she obtained a greater share of the marital assets, we conclude that the court’s division of the parties’ sole significant asset was not disproportionately unfavorable to the plaintiff.”
Anderson v. Anderson, 160 Conn. App. 341, 345, 125 A.3d 606 (2015). "General Statutes § 46b-81 (c) provides... 'The court shall also consider the contribution of each of the parties in the acquisition, preservation or appreciation in value of their respective estates.' Furthermore, '[o]ur jurisprudence requires the trial court to consider all the statutory criteria set forth in ... § 46b-81 in determining how to distribute parties' assets in a dissolution... We do not, however, require that courts ritualistically recite the criteria they considered, nor are they bound to any specific formula respecting the weight to be accorded each factor.' (Citation omitted; footnote omitted.) Casey v. Casey, 82 Conn. App. 378, 384, 844 A.2d 250 (2004)."

Brady-Kinsella v. Kinsella, 154 Conn. App. 413, 423-424, 106 A.3d 956 (2014). "As our prior cases have held, '[p]ension benefits are widely recognized as among the most valuable assets that parties have when a marriage ends... Nevertheless, there is no set formula that a court must follow when dividing the parties' assets, including pension benefits.' (Citations omitted; internal quotation marks omitted.) Martin v. Martin, 101 Conn. App. 106, 111, 920 A.2d 340 (2007). It is also clear that a court can exercise a wide range of discretion in dissolution matters... governed by General Statutes § 46b-81... a trial court 'may assign to either spouse all or any part of the estate of the other spouse. In fixing the nature and value of the property, if any, to be assigned, the court, after considering all the evidence presented by each party shall consider the length of the marriage, the causes for the... dissolution of the marriage... the age, health, station, occupation, amount and sources of income, earning capacity, vocational skills, education, employability, estate, liabilities and needs of each of the parties and the opportunity of each for future acquisition of capital assets and income.' (Emphasis added.)"

Desai v. Desai, 119 Conn App. 224, 238, 987 A2d. 362 (2010). "... The court found the plaintiff to be responsible for the breakdown of the marriage. It also stated that '[d]espite the brevity of the marriage, the court cannot disregard the physical violence.' The court clearly considered the statutory criteria set forth in § 46b-81.... There is no additional requirement that the court specifically state how it weighed these factors or explain in detail the importance it assigned to these factors.”

Fitzsimons v. Fitzsimons, 116 Conn. App. 449, 456,459,975 A2d 729 (2009). "... In light of the court's finding, upon reconsideration, that the defendant’s conduct in causing the irretrievable breakdown of the parties’ marriage should be taken into consideration in the division of the equity of the marital home, we cannot say that awarding the plaintiff an additional 10 percent of that equity was an abuse of the
There was no need for the plaintiff, having timely proposed an order giving her more than a simple 50 percent interest in the house, to set forth in her proposed orders every possible disparate division of the equity in the marital residence for the court to have discretion to grant a postjudgment motion to reargue…"

- Gershman v. Gershman, 286 Conn. 341, 351, 943 A.2d 1091 (2008). “...the trial court considered the defendant’s ‘dissipation of family assets’ in ordering the overall asset division between the parties. The trial court specifically referred to two acts of dissipation. The first was the defendant’s ‘bad investment’ in the various Alkon partnerships. The second was the $200,000 loss on the sale of the excessively expensive marital home. The trial court, however, did not find either financial misconduct, e.g., intentional waste or a selfish financial transaction, or that the defendant had used marital assets for a nonmarital purpose with regard to either of these transactions. In the absence of such findings, we must reverse the judgment of the trial court and remand the case for a new trial.”

- Finan v. Finan, 287 Conn. 491, 493, 949 A2d 498 (2008). “We conclude…that a trial court should consider preseparation dissipation of marital assets, so long as the actions constituting dissipation occur either: (1) in contemplation of divorce or separation; or (2) while the marriage is in serious jeopardy or is undergoing a irretrievable breakdown.”

- Picton v. Picton, 111 Conn App. 143, 152-153, 958 A.2d 763 (2008). “The plaintiff focuses on §46b-81(c) and its requirement that the court consider the contribution of the parties to the acquisition, preservation or appreciation in value of the Cape Cod property and argued that the court abused its discretion by failing to take proper consideration of these factors. These factors, however, are only a few of the many factors specifically mentioned in §46b-81(c).... ...Certainly the court would not be abusing its discretion in considering the defendant’s substantial nonmonetary contributions that enabled the plaintiff to spend weekends away from his primary residence and his children so that he could upgrade the Cape Cod property.”

- Loughlin v. Loughlin, 280 Conn. 632, 647, 910 A.2d 963 (2006). “We note that, because the parties were first married in 1981, divorced in 1992, cohabited from 1993 until their second marriage in 1998, and were divorced for the second time in 2004, the difference between the length of their entire relationship, approximately twenty-two years, and the length of their second marriage, six years, is not insubstantial. We conclude that the trial court did consider the entirety of the relationship and thus based its financial awards in part on impermissible considerations.”

- Greco v. Greco, 70 Conn. App. 735, 740, 799 A.2d 331 (2002). "Despite the defendant's contentions to the contrary and his own review of the criteria set forth in § 46b-81, we cannot construe the court's award as an abuse of discretion in light of the court's finding that the defendant's infidelity was the cause of the breakdown of the marriage. That is a factor that the court was required to consider pursuant to § 46b-81.”
